FOUR SENT TO ELECTRIC CHAIR AT BREAK OF DAY

GUNMAN CIROFICI SAYS JUSTICE HAS BEEN DONE

Forty Growsome Minutes Consumed in Carrying Out Law's Decree on Slay-ers of Herman Rosenthal.

WITNESSES WATCH WITH ASHEN FACES

GUNMAN CIROFICI MADE CONFESSION.

Ossining, N. Y., April 13.—It was reported here this afternoon that Frank Cirofici in being put to death this morning made a confession to Warden Clancy and Father Cashin in which he admitted that justice had been done. "Dago Frank" is said to have stated that while he was not present at the murder of Rosenthal, Harry Horowitz, Louis Rosenberg and Harry Vallon did the shooting. It was further reported that Cirofici said that none of the gunmen had known, previous to the shooting, that Police Lieut. Charles S. Becker was concerned in the affair.

Sing Sing Prison, Ossining, N. Y., April 13.—The four gunmen, slayers of Herman Rosenthal, the New York gambler, were put to death in the electric chair here about 6 o'clock this morning. They were brought into the death chamber and executed in the following order:

Frank Cirofici ("Dago Frank").
Frank Seidenshner, ("Whitey Lewis").
Harry Horowitz, ("Gyp the Blood").
Louis Rosenberg, ("Lefty Louie").

Forty minutes passed between the time that "Dago Frank" was strapped into the death chair until the last of the quartet of gunmen was pronounced dead.

Declared His Innocence.

"Whitey" Lewis died stoutly declaring his innocence and was denouncing a witness named Stannish when the electric current stopped him. "Dago Frank" broke down during the hours preceding the execution and was in almost a complete state of collapse as he walked into the death room.

USE OF A SLOT METER CAUSES DEATH OF GIRL.

South Bend, Ind., April 13.—Marjorie Frain, aged 16 years, is dead as a result of a slot meter being used by her family. Falling asleep with the gas burning, the supply became exhausted and her mother, unaware that the jet in her daughter's room was open, deposited a quarter in the machine. This morning she found her daughter dead with a book by her side.

MINERS VOTE TO END WAR

Heavy Majority for Calling Off Strike in Copper Country.

GROW WEARY OF LONG STRUGGLE

Waive Union Recognition But Say Other Demands Are Complied With.

Hancock, Mich., April 13. The copper miners who have been on strike voted yesterday to call off the strike, according to an announcement made today by Charles E. Hietala, district secretary of the Western Federation of Miners. The figures will not be given out until after a meeting of the district board this afternoon.

It is unofficially reported that the majority in favor of calling off the strike was 1,012. The unofficial vote from four of the five locals in the district resulted as follows: Alameda, 600 for returning to work, 17 against; Calumet, 291 for, 382 against; Hancock, 491 for, 18 against; South Range, 485 for, 90 against.

Waive Union Recognition. Recognition of the union denied by the mining companies is waived by the strikers in voting to return to work. They claim that practically all of their other demands have been complied with since the strike began. These included better working conditions on eight hour day and a minimum daily wage of $8.

From the outset the operators have declared that they would never recognize the Western Federation of Miners, although they have maintained that

WAR RELICS TO BE A FEATURE

Exhibit of Old Weapons at G. A. R. Encampment at Indianapolis.

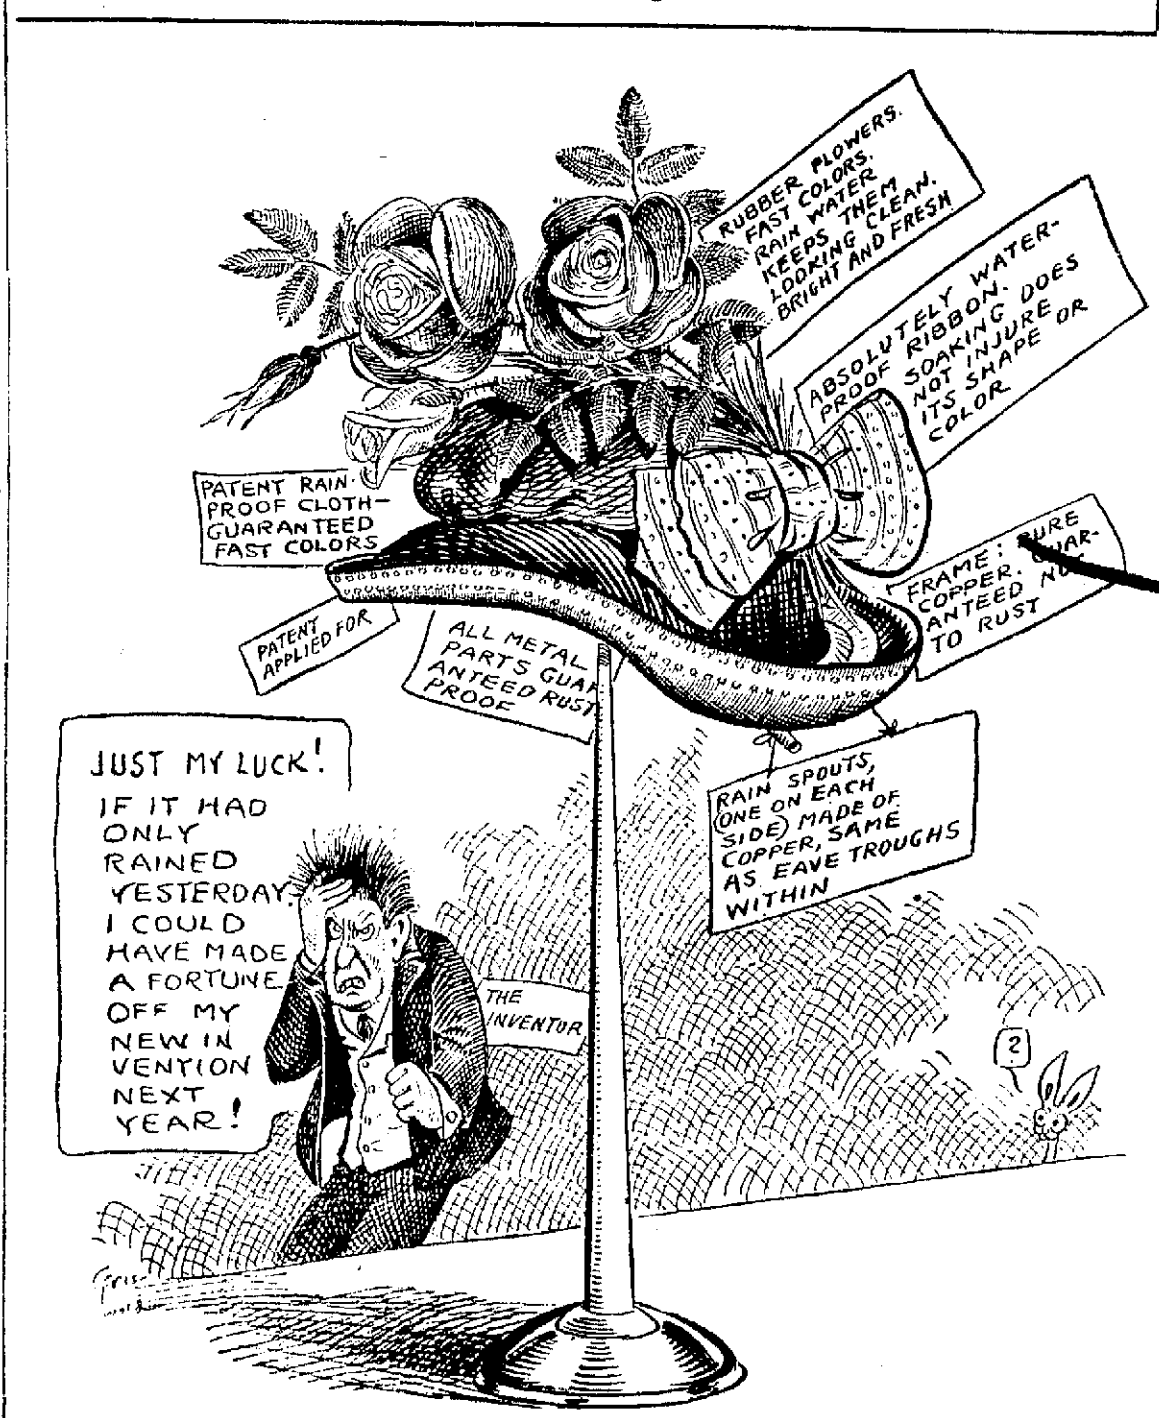

MUCH INTEREST IN IT

Indianapolis, April 13.—One of the features of the coming G. A. R. encampment in Indianapolis May 6-8, according to announcement made today, is an exhibit of firearms and war relics to be placed in the Denison hotel, which is headquarters for the G. A. R.

Gov. Ralston has given permission to the executive committee of the Sons of Veterans who are to meet with the G. A. R. for the exhibition of the arms.

In addition to the co-operation of Gov. Ralston, Mr. Tutwiler has been assured there will be a number of valuable and interesting exhibits offered from private collections. These embrace weapons used in the revolutionary war, in a number of the Indian wars that antedated the revolution as well as equipment in the war of 1812, the Mexican war, the war of the rebellion and the Spanish-American and Indian wars. Already a great deal of interest has been shown in the exhibit plans which are rapidly assuming definite form.

A Kick on Yesterday's Weather

GIRL TRAILS MEN WHO ATTACKED HER

Miss Catherine Motsch Has Begun Search for Her Assailants.

TWO SUSPECTS TAKEN

East St. Louis, April 13.—Though not fully recovered from the effects of an attack to which she was subjected by three negroes here last Friday night, Miss Catherine Motsch, 17, today is walking up one street and down another, determined to trail her assailants herself.

Despite the pleadings of nurses and relatives the girl left the hospital last night and immediately took up the search. Where there were street cars she rode and through the smaller and less inhabited streets, she walked.

On a street car she overheard a conversation which led her to a place where several negroes were in hiding. She hurried to police headquarters with the information and within a few hours after her release from the hospital two negroes had been arrested as suspects. Miss Motsch partially identified one as a member of the trio which took her assault and dragged her into a dark alley.

In view of the numerous attacks on women, citizens of East St. Louis last night began a movement to supply the police department with bloodhounds to be used in tracking down assailants.

Tolls Exemption Repeal Not Treaty Interpretation, Holds Wilson.

SENATE COMMITTEE RESUMES HEARING

Interest in Tolls Wrangle Heightened by Bryan Statement.

Washington, April 13.—President Wilson declared today that the repeal of the Panama tolls extension could not be regarded as an interpretation of the Hay-Pauncefote treaty because it would be a legislative act. He held that no amendment setting forth the rights of the United States under the treaty was necessary in his opinion.

The president took the same view as Secretary Bryan that by repealing the exemption, the United States merely showed a disinclination to raise the ques-

Houghton, Mich.—Charles H. Moyer and thirty-seven other officials and members of Western Federation of Miners must stand trial under the indictment charging them with conspiracy in copper strike troubles. Their petition to quash indictment was denied today.

Philadelphia.—"Aunt Mahala" Ayer (colored) yesterday celebrated her 114th birthday, dressing herself unaided and attending Easter services.

New York.—The second trial of Charles S. Becker, former police lieutenant adjudged guilty of murder with the four gunmen executed today, will begin May 4 if the district attorney has his way.

Chicago.—A committee of the Independent Telephone Association of America met here today to consider a form of contract for long distance service over lines of the American Telephone and Telegraph company. W. J. Uhl, of Logansport, Ind., is a member of the committee.

HOT PURSUIT OF FLEEING NEGRO

Jim Ghee, Witness in the Trentman Case, Tries to Get Away.

IS NOW BEHIND BARS

James Ghee, a negro waiter in the Anthony hotel who was an eye witness of the shooting of Howard J. Bruce by A. R. Trentman, the evening of March 27, took thought that he would like to visit his relatives somewhere or other. He had lost his place at the hotel and was preparing to leave the city. Prosecutor Harry H. Hightman heard that Ghee was about to get

H. G. HOGAN TO BE SERGEANT-AT-ARMS

Fort Wayne Man Named for Republican State Convention.

MAXWELL CHAIRMAN

Indianapolis, April 13.—It was announced at republican state headquarters that Howard Maxwell, an attorney of Rockville, has been chosen temporary chairman of the republican state convention that is to be held in this city on April 22 and 23. Harry G. Hogan, former city attorney of Fort Wayne, was named as sergeant-at-arms of the convention and James L. Allen, of Covington, who supported Col. Roosevelt in 1912, was appointed chief usher.

In announcing the selection of Mr. Maxwell as the temporary chairman of the convention State Chairman Will H. Hays said: "The temporary chairman will make a half hour's speech on state issues. This speech he will have mission to perform will be of vital importance to every taxpayer in the state. Howard Maxwell has the courage to do his duty."

The selection of Mr. Maxwell came as a great surprise as it had been generally expected that this honor would go to some one who had long been identified actively with republican state politics. According to members of the sub-committee of the state committee that made the selection, Mr. Maxwell was chosen solely because of his ability as a lawyer and a public speaker.

In 1908 Mr. Maxwell was the republican nominee for congress in the Fifth district.

LIND BRINGS DEAL OF DATA

Wilson's Personal Envoy to Mexico Arrives in Washington.

IS READY TO GO BACK IF NEEDED

"Silent Man" Plans to Come to Indiana to Take a Needed Rest.

Washington, April 13.—John Lind, President Wilson's personal representative in Mexico returned to Washington today after an absence of months. While he came for a rest after his long stay in a tropical climate, he brought much information for conferences with the president and Secretary Bryan. The first of these took place at a luncheon with Mr. Bryan.

Mr. Lind greeted inquirers by asking if it were true that Rear Admiral Mayo had been ordered to revoke his demand for the firing of a salute to the American colors at Tampico and when he was informed that President Wilson had insisted that the salute be fired he smiled approvingly.

The face of the former Minnesota governor was bronzed by the tropical sun and he appeared somewhat fatigued and thin after his long sojourn. He was uncommunicative about conditions in Mexico and laughed when a friend approached him in the hotel lobby and told him he had acquired the title "the silent man."

Once Called Him Talkative.

"It is odd," said the former governor, "that a man has to go abroad to get a reputation. When I was in public life in this country some people said I was talkative, but I seem to have gotten a reputation for silence."

Mr. Lind said his plans were not definite and depended largely on his talks with President Wilson and Secretary Bryan. He left Mexico at his own request, he said, because he needed rest and change. He intimated that he was ready to go back should a contingency arise requiring his return.

It is understood that Mr. Lind brought the president a good deal of information that has not been communicated through official channels but information was said to be descriptive of general conditions. The rigorous censorship that has been established

JACK WALLS HAS FOLKS IN OHIO

Relatives of Man Killed Saturday Night Want Body Shipped. WAS HERE ONE WEEK

Local authorities received a telegram this morning from relatives of Clive, "Jack" Walls, who was killed late Saturday night by a Fort Wayne and Northwestern interurban car north of the city, and they ask that the remains be shipped to Bainbridge, Ohio. The message was signed "L. Walls," and it is thought that the reply came from the young man's father.

Walls was thirty-two years of age and had been in Fort Wayne only one week, employed at the Fort Wayne Brick and Tile company. He met instant death when he stumbled in front of the interurban car near stop No. 8, a short distance north of town.

Coroner E. H. Kruse will begin his inquest late this afternoon and among others to be examined will be the crew, passengers on the car and several men reported to have been with Walls early in the evening.

Here Only One Week.

Walls had been in Fort Wayne only one week and went to work at the plant of the Fort Wayne Brick and Tile company a week ago this morning. It is believed, however, that he worked at the yards of the company for a short time last summer. E. C. Miller, manager of the company, had the police department telegraph to Bainbridge, Ohio, Sunday in an effort to locate relatives.

Motorman Carl Schuster, who was operating the car, said that the man was walking along the side of the road, just as the car was within a distance of fifty feet from him, he staggered over to the tracks facing the car, but it was too late for the motorman to stop in time to avoid the tragedy.

The body was badly mutilated, both legs and arms being broken, the skull crushed and all of the ribs on both sides of his body were splintered. His body was hurled a distance of seventy-five feet, slightly face downward along the right of way.

L. R. Hindman, train dispatcher, who was riding in the smoking compartment, said he thought the car was moving at a rate of about thirty miles an hour, and was stopped within four hundred feet of the spot where Walls was struck. The body was left on the ground where it had fallen and Conductor A. McIntire remained on the scene until the arrival of Coroner E. H. Kruse.

beyond his jurisdiction and he sent for the negro. Ghee went into Prosecutor Hilgoman's office on the sixth floor of the People's Trust building on Calhoun street about 10 o'clock this morning. Deputy Prosecutor Stephen A. Callahan showed Ghee into his consultation room, which is at the easternmost of the prosecutor's suite. Ghee was given a seat and Deputy Callahan returned to the front office, where he was engaged when Ghee came in. Directly there was a rapidly moving shadow across the glass of the front office door, the hasty shuffling of feet in the corridor and the rising of intuitive suspicions in Deputy Callahan's mind. He jumped for his own office. One hurried glance confirmed the worst of his fears. Ghee was gone.

The alarm was raised and pursuit begun. One of the office attaches started after Ghee who, disdaining the elevator, had started down the stairway. About two flights behind the fleeing negro his pursuer continued the chase to the ground floor. Ghee took to the alley south of the building, ran east to Barr street, darted around the city building and over to Main street. At the city hall Art Smith relayed into the race and kept close behind the fugitive. Police joined the hue and cry and the No. 1 fire engine house on East Main street screened captured the negro and held him. Ghee was taken in custody and is now in the county jail. He will be put under bond for his appearance at the Trentman trial in the fall. His testimony is regarded as of great importance.

Ghee explained that he had no reason to flee except that he wanted to get out of town to "go home and see his folks."

DEATH CAUSED BY PIMPLE ON NOSE

Pauline L. Mayland Dies After Very Brief Illness. THE OTHER DEATHS

Blood poisoning resulting from the bursting of a pimple and its infection by poison, caused the death of Miss Pauline L. Mayland, who passed away at 1 o'clock this morning at the family residence, 1318 Heustis avenue, after an illness of only a few days' duration. Miss Mayland was fifty-two years of age and was the daughter of the late Frederick Mayland. Her mother died just three weeks ago.

The poisoning was first noticed when a small pimple on Miss Mayland's nose became irritated and in a short time had caused her face to swell until she was almost unrecognizable. The poison spread through her body and later burst through the flesh on one of her ankles.

Miss Mayland was born July 24, 1861, in Fort Wayne, and had resided here all her life. She was a member of Emmanuel's Lutheran church and was widely known. Surviving she leaves one brother, August Mayland, and a sister, Mrs. Lena Stahl, both of this city.

LOUIS BASHELIER.

Mr. Bashelier came to Allen county with his parents in 1836, the family coming from Germany where he was born. Until the death of his wife twenty-four years ago, Mr. Bashelier farmed in Washington township. Since that time he had been residing at the home of his children. Surviving he leaves three children, Mrs. Christian Solomon, Fred H. and Henry Bashelier, all of Washington township. He also leaves one sister, Mrs. David Hauss.

Funeral services Wednesday afternoon at 12:30 o'clock from the residence and at 2 o'clock from St. John's Lutheran church, Rev. John H. Bosch officiating. Interment at Lindenwood.

Full bearers have been selected as follows: Frederick Henschel, Ernest Henschel, Frederick Bueker, Ludwig W. Shawe, Anthony Rose and Charles Solomon.

BOESE.

Henry F. Boese, aged twenty-eight years, died at 11 o'clock Sunday evening at the Lutheran hospital from peritonitis following an operation for relief from appendicitis, submitted to one week ago.

The deceased was employed as a clerk at the Montgomery grocery store for several years and was widely known. Surviving besides the widow and one small child he leaves the parents, Mr. and Mrs. Fred Boese, one brother, Otto, and two sisters, Dora and Mildred Boese.

The remains have been removed to the family home at 1400 Mamme avenue.

Funeral services Thursday afternoon at 1:45 o'clock from the residence and at 2:30 o'clock from Zion's Lutheran church, Rev. H. C. Luehr officiating. Interment at Concordia.

SAPP.

Mrs. Mary Sapp, aged forty-eight years, died this morning at 11 o'clock at the family home, 917 Cottage avenue, from tuberculosis, after an illness of five months' duration. Mrs. Sapp came to Fort Wayne eighteen years ago from Garrett and has resided here ever since.

Mrs. Sapp was a member of the Moderns and of the St. Patrick's Catholic church and also a member of the Rosary society of that congregation.

Besides a score of friends she is survived by her husband, John B. Sapp, employed at the Packard Piano company and two sons, Raymond J. and Edward P. Sapp, both of this city.

FISHER.

Miss Ellen C. Fisher, aged fifty-six years, died late Saturday night at her home, 423 West Washington boulevard after a prolonged illness from paralysis. Surviving she leaves one sister, Henrietta Fisher and two brothers, George and Ben Fisher, all residing in this city. Miss Fisher was a member of Deborah lodge No. 110 of the Rebecca lodge.

Funeral services Tuesday afternoon at 2 o'clock from the residence, Rev. Enatz officiating. Members of the lodge to which she belonged will conduct services over the remains.

KOONTZ.

Mary E. Koontz, infant daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Frank N. Koontz, 1025 Walker street, died at 10:15 o'clock Sunday morning. The baby was one of twins, the other child having died March 4.

Funeral services were held at 2:30

CLAXTON.

Bernard E. Claxton, infant son of Mr. and Mrs. Edward Claxton, died Sunday at the home of the parents in Charabuse. Funeral services were held at 2 o'clock this afternoon, Rev. Sheriff officiating. Interment was made in Ed River cemetery.

LOCAL MAN DROPS DEAD IN FLORIDA

Francis J. Potter Widely Known in Grand Army Circles. HE WAS 75 YEARS OLD

Francis J. Potter of 801 Prospect avenue, one of the best known civil war veterans residing in Fort Wayne, died suddenly this morning at the home of his son in St. Petersburg, Fla., where he had been spending the winter. A telegram received at noon by local friends announced his sudden death, but no detailed information was given.

Mr. Potter was a brick mason by trade and Fort Wayne had been his home since the close of the war. He retired from work several years ago. During the war of the rebellion he served as a member of Company 1, 34th Indiana volunteer infantry, and in grand army circles it is said that he claimed the distinction of having participated in the last battle of the war, an engagement fought in Texas after peace had been declared. The conflicting armies were so far removed from a center of information that they did not know that the war had ended and a battle was waged several days after peace was agreed upon.

He was seventy-five years of age and surviving besides the widow he leaves one son and one daughter, a son, one of the early members of Sinn S. Bass post of the G. A. R. and until leaving for the south late last autumn, had been very active in the business affairs of the organization.

The remains will be shipped to Fort Wayne for funeral services and burial but no details for the funeral have been completed at this date.

tion of discrimination, but did not by its act limit any future policy of the government. Mr. Wilson drew a distinction between a legislative act and an authoritative interpretation of a treaty, the latter of which would have to be formulated by the legislative branch of the government and ratified by a two-thirds vote of the senate.

Mr. Wilson said the toll situation in the senate was constantly improving and apparently that people who had been asked to appear in the hearings were getting "cold feet."

Hearings Ate Resumed.

Hearings on the house bill providing for the repeal of the toll exemption clause of the Panama canal act and other measures on the subject were resumed today before the senate inter-oceanic canal committee. The committee planned to devote eleven more days to the hearings and expected to listen to arguments by a large number of witnesses. They include prominent lawyers, diplomats, representatives of commercial organizations and others. Several were on hand prepared to testify today. Interest in the tolls controversy was heightened today by Secretary Bryan's statement in which he made a plea for repeal and by the announcement from the democratic national committee of the first returns from a poll which Senator Gore, of Oklahoma, is making of delegates to the Baltimore convention. These were the latest developments in the issue and were being discussed with considerable interest here today. Returns from the poll continued to come in today. To date the vote, according to the committee, stands 338 in favor of the repeal, 69 against and 11 non-committal.

Will Be Consolidated.

President Wilson and Chairman Clayton and Representatives Floyd and Carlin of the house judiciary committee after an hour's conference agreed to consolidate in one measure the main feature of the Sherman law definitions bill and the bills to prohibit interlocking directorates and holding companies. The president agreed to the insertion of the principles embodied in two measures which passed the house last year providing for the regulating of the injunctions in labor cases and trial by jury in contempt cases.

Three Bills by Lewis.

Characterizing three bills which he introduced in the senate today as representing "the trinity of his labors while in the senate," Senator James Hamilton Lewis, democrat, of Illinois, submitted a measure to empower the United States to take over and lease to private interests all interstate railroads; another to authorize the government to build one hundred ships in American waters to be chartered to any part of the world as government merchant marine, and be an adjunct to the navy in time of war, and a third, to abolish the interstate commerce commission and create a new commission for interstate commerce and industry of twenty-one members divided into three branches.

Senator Lewis' commission bill is explained by himself would create three sub-commissions of seven members each, "one branch to have interstate commerce and transportation, railways and steamships; one to have the jurisdiction over banking and finance; the third over factories and interstate manufactures and intershipments of manufactured merchandise."

DRUNKEN YOUTH STRIKES OFFICER

Ed Eck Then Stages a Foul Show in Presence of His Mother.

NEWS OF THE POLICE

Ed Eck, a sixteen-year-old youth who said he had employment at a leading hotel downtown, was shown an undeserved leniency in the city court today when found guilty of a charge of disorderly conduct. About 1 o'clock Sunday morning young Eck with three or four companions went into the Summit City restaurant on West Wayne street. Their conduct was boisterous and disorderly. They refused to heed the waiter's request to keep quiet or leave and Detective Sergeant M. A. Randall, who was in the place cutting his lunch at the time, took Eck, the worst of the party, outside and told him to behave himself and go home. The rowdy lad's response was to deal the officer a blow in the face. He was taken to headquarters, where later in the presence of his mother he cut in with a string of billingsgate and profanity directed at Police Captain Kelly. In court today Eck said he had been drinking and tried to establish a case of assault against Detective Randall. His case was continued two weeks, during which time he is to report his conduct to Chief Lenz. Meanwhile, the police will investigate his testimony as to where he was sold drinks and prosecutions may follow.

Women Plead Guilty.

Leah Snell, of long and unsavory repute, and looked under the name of Alice Smith, and Birdie Osborne, both white women; Carrie Johnson and Gertrude Smith, both colored women, along with Barto Kurth and John Badach, two Slav men, were fined in the city court today as a result of Saturday afternoon raids made by Officers George Eisenhut and Brandt on resorts at 230 and 232 North Calhoun street in the old red light district. The women all entered pleas of guilty through an attorney and none of them testified. Carrie Johnson and Alice Smith each got $25 and costs and suspended sentences of thirty days for keeping houses of ill-fame and Gertrude Smith and Birdie Osborne each drew $10 and costs and suspended sentences of ten days for prostitution. The men pleaded not guilty to association, but were convicted and each was fined $10 and costs and given a suspended sentence of ten days. Dave Byrd, a white man who said Muncie was his home, defaulted and his cash bond of $25 was wiped out with a $15 fine and costs. Byrd leaped from a window in the rear of the house at 232 Calhoun street and half dressed was tumbling into the St. Mary's river when Officer Eisenhut seized him. A half hour later the negro judge was pulled and led two foreigners and the pair of negroes were taken. The places were recently opened and had been running in a sly fashion.

Other City Court Cases.

James McHardy, a beggar with a wooden leg and no end of dirt on him, was fined $1 and costs for drunkenness. He was sitting in the middle of the sidewalk on West Main street when Officer Coulter caught him begging.

Walter Butler, a negro who was too closely watching the cash register in Stewart's saloon, was arrested for loitering. He had a window jimmy on his person when searched at headquarters. Under $50 bond his case was continued until Saturday.

Bill Parker, a drunk, tried to tell the police and the court a tale of having been robbed of $115 while tasting high life in Fort Wayne Saturday and Sunday night. He could not give a very circumstantial account of his wanderings and associates in town and his story of having saved $115 while working on a farm and always carrying it with him was fishy. He got $1 and costs.

Denry Hawkins, a drunk, said he would clear out and was allowed to go. Hugh Benson was given $1 and costs on a loitering charge. He is badly shattered by drink and needed attention Sunday in his cell at headquarters. He has been in before.

Frank Sullivan, who stole some cheap jewelry at a 10-cent store, was fined $10 and costs and given twelve days in jail on his plea of guilty.

Conrad Lear and John Lane, arrested last week for drunkenness while prowling around the doors of a trust company, were turned loose today to get out of town. Nothing serious was found against them.

Andy Donnelly, who was drunk when arrested last week, promised to go to his Baker street home and keep sober and was released.

GUNMAN CROFICI SAYS JUSTICE HAS BEEN DONE

The executions gathered in front of the prison. The air was chill and a raw wind swept across the Hudson. Paint light glimmered at corridor ends of the building, but no sound came from within. The hideous noises which convicts have been said to emit when one or more of their number is to die were spared those who waited.

As Dawn Crept Over Hills.

Dawn was just creeping over the hills when the witnesses were admitted to the bare court yard of the death house. Many were ashen-faced and trembling. From a printed list a clerk read off the names of those who were to see the first man die. A moment more and the door of the death chamber had closed behind them. Warden Clancy had announced that "Gyp the Blood" should die first, followed by "Lefty Louis," "Dago Frank" and "Whitely Lewis." But as it transpired, the man who first came through the little iron door at the right was "Dago Frank." He had shown signs of collapsing and it was deemed expedient to shield him from the ordeal of waiting.

State electrician Davis carefully tested the electric current. "Two of these men back told me that they will make a statement," said Warden Clancy, "but under no circumstances must any questions be asked." The head and leg sponges were then wet and then Head Keeper McInerney, acting on a signal from the warden went to the death cell. There he found Crofici in prayer with Father Cashin. The condemned man clasped a crucifix in each hand as he was led into the presence of death. He had to be supported by two keepers.

Murmur in Supplication.

In the death cells could be heard the murmur of the other slayers in their supplications. The warden and attendants stood back from the rubber mat. "Oh God, I meet my God," gasped the Italian. The state electrician turned the switch.

The first contact was gradually reduced and then a second shock was given. The prison physician, Dr. Farr and Mr. Mercone, with several other witnessing doctors, applied the stethoscope.

"I pronounce this man dead," said Dr. Farr in a low voice. It was 5:43 o'clock. The group of witnesses left the death chamber and the body of "Dago Frank" was lifted by white coated guards and taken to the autopsy room.

Mental Processes Failed Him.

The doctors said Crofici had made little resistance to the electric current, which registered 1,250 volts and between 9 and 10 amperes. Of the four he died the easiest.

He had intended making a statement but his mental processes had failed him. A new lot of witnesses filed in. Through the little door presently came "Whitely Lewis." He was garbed in a black suit, as "Dago Frank" had been. This statement that he never finished was on his lips as he entered. The attendants, fearing a shocking spectacle or hysteria, sought to soothe him.

A current of 1,250 volts, with a slightly higher amperage than had been used on Crofici took his life.

The switch was first closed at 5:47:36 and he was pronounced dead at 5:52. At 5:56 "Gyp the Blood" was brought in. He had a Jewish prayer book in his left hand and Rabbi Goldstein, walked by his side. "Listen Israel, there is only one God," mumbled Gyp in Hebrew. Two shocks were given and at 6:02 physicians pronounced the man dead.

Last of the Four to Die.

"Lefty Louis," the last of the four to die, and accordingly the keenest sufferer by reason of the interval of waiting, entered the chamber at 6:07. The Jewish prayer book which he grasped, he handed to Rabbi Kopstein. The guard strapped him in the chair. Like "Gyp" he mumbled a prayer in Hebrew. The theory that the strongest shall die last, "Lefty" bore out by his unceasing resistance to the current. The first contact was given at 6:08. At 6:17 he was pronounced dead.

The only relatives of the gunmen who were in the prison at the time of the execution were "Dago Frank's" mother, sister and brother, and "Whitely Lewis's" brothers. Mrs. Crofici was borne to her carriage in collapse, an hour after the electrocution.

All the bodies of the gunmen will be claimed by relatives. Mrs. Crofici remained with her son as late as 4 a. m. This is an unusual procedure. She had thought until the last moment that on her son's plea for mercy the governor would grant a reprieve. She believed in her boy's innocence to the end. She pleaded with Frank in Italian to confess; but he said he had told all he knew and that he had not been present when Herman Rosenthal was killed.

The Case in Brief.

The real names of the men who have been known as "Gyp the Blood," "Lefty Louis," "Dago Frank" and "Whitely Lewis" were Harry Horowitz, Louis Rosenberg, Frank Crofici and Frank Sedenshane. The youngest, "Lefty Louis," was 21; the oldest, "Dago Frank," 27.

All were Jews except "Dago Frank." As the nickname implies, he was an Italian. "Gyp the Blood" and "Lefty Louis" were married. Their young widows survive them.

Not only during the trial but in statements given out at Sing Sing, three of the gunmen persisted in the declaration that "Dago Frank" had not been present at the time of the murder, and was not in any way concerned in the plot to murder Rosenthal. During their stay in the death house all four maintained an attitude of martyrlike innocence, tempered with an optimism growing out of their belief that their fate hinged upon Becker's and that if he were not guilty, they must be set free. The news crushing hopes of this nature as announced by the warden was received with stoical calmness.

The crime for which the four gunmen paid the death penalty started a wave of police reform, from which the ripples have not yet subsided. Throughout the revelations made at the time and subsequently stalked the vague, sinister monster known as the "police system."

Rosenthal was shot down early on the morning of July 16, 1912, in front of the Hotel Metropole in the heart of the Tenderloin, on receiving an announcement from a man who came into the hotel, he walked out and fell dead before a fusillade of bullets. The murderers leaped into an automobile and escaped. Weeks later after Becker had been arrested the gunmen were found in a flat in Brooklyn.

Their conviction and Becker's were based chiefly on the testimony of three go-betweens who turned state's evidence. These men—Jack Rose, Bridgely Webber and Harry Vallon—declared that they had hired the gunmen to kill the gambler, Rosenthal, at Becker's request.

Sam Schepps, a little gambler, corroborated their testimony, and was not adjudged an accomplice.

Becker was a police lieutenant in charge of the "strong arm squad" whose duties were to keep in subjection the gangs of the city and to regulate gambling houses and places of ill-fame. Rose, Webber and Vallon said that Becker had made use of his position to collect money from these houses. Rosenthal, according to these same witnesses, having a grievance against Becker, was about to give evidence against Becker to the district attorney.

Becker was arrested July 19, 1912, but nearly two months elapsed before the apprehension of the gunmen. Their trial before Justice Goff marked a record of speed in criminal procedure.

"DAGO FRANK" CONFESSES.

Statements by Condemned Man Now on Way to Albany.

Albany, N. Y., April 13.—Some of the gunmen are believed to have confessed before they died. Supt. John B. Riley, of the state prison department, said today that statements would arrive here from Ossining today which would show that "no injustice had been done by the execution." He knew nothing of the nature of the statements.

For days there has been a constant rumor that he would tell all before he died. A remark made by Mr. Riley strengthened the belief that "Dago Frank" confessed.

"The men had the same opportunity to make their statement when I was down to Sing Sing last week," he said, "but they did not choose to avail themselves of it."

Mr. Riley went to the prison under the impression that "Dago Frank" wanted to make a final confession. But the prisoner would not talk. Had he broken silence, it was generally understood, the death penalty would not have been inflicted today. No reprieve would have been granted, it is declared, but the execution would not have taken place until next Saturday. Hope that such a delay might give time for new court action was held out to the gunmen by their relatives. Mr. Riley said today that he would issue a formal statement as soon as the messenger arrives.

The statement is declared to implicate no one but the men who died today. Gov. Glynn refused to discuss the statement, although it is known that the contents of it has been made known to him. The governor is declared to be satisfied that the four men executed this morning were guilty. No word was forthcoming as to whether the "confession" was made by all or one of the condemned men. It was given to Warden Clancy this morning about 4 o'clock. No promises were held out to the writer, it is said, but in the last hours on earth there was a voluntary change in the attitude of some of the condemned. The report persists that the statement came from "Dago Frank."

they did not question the right of their employers to organize. Several thousand men have been imported to fill the strikers' places and the companies will be hard pressed to find work for the returning strikers. When the strike began the union claimed that approximately 13,000 men were out. Since that time many of these have returned to work and others have moved away from the copper district. The latest estimate of the number of the strike made by Secretary Hietala placed the figure at about 6,000. The mining company estimates were much smaller.

WAS FOUND DEAD IN LANE.

Body of Retired Farmer Discovered by His Son-in-Law.

Bluffton, Ind., April 13.—John Furman, 76, a retired farmer, was found dead in a lane near his home in the northern part of Jefferson township early in the morning. It is believed that he had either fallen from his rig or was thrown out when one wheel caught in a fence. He fell in the ditch and was unable to rise by reason of his infirmities, and death ensued as the result of exposure to the cold and rain. His body was found by his son-in-law, Ernest Stoenhager, after he had found the horse with broken harness in the lane yard.

SAYS SULPHUR IS SURE TO RELIEVE ITCHING ECZEMA

Get an ounce of bold-sulphur cream and heal skin eruptions right up.

Any breaking out or irritation on the face, arms, legs or body when accompanied by itching, or when the skin is dry and feverish, can be readily overcome by applying a little bold-sulphur cream, says a noted dermatologist. He informs us that bold-sulphur instantly allays the angry itching and irritation and soothes and heals the eczema right up, leaving the skin clear and smooth. Bold-sulphur has occupied a secure position for many years in the treatment of cutaneous disorders because of its parasite-destroying property. Nothing has ever been found to take its place in treating the irritable and inflammatory skin affections. While not always establishing a permanent cure it never fails to subside the itching irritation and drive the eczema away and it is often years later before any eruption again appears on the skin. Those troubled should obtain at any pharmacy an ounce of bold-sulphur cream which is applied to the affected parts in the same manner as an ordinary cold cream. It isn't unpleasant and the prompt relief afforded, particularly in itching eczema, proves very welcome. Adv.

YOUNG GIRL PLEADS GUILTY.

Bluffton, Ind., April 13.—In juvenile court Miss Ruby Monroe, a young girl whose actions have been under investigation for some time, pleaded guilty to a charge of delinquency. Sentence was withheld and she was given into the custody of her parents. Evidence was also heard against Cleo Brown, 9, who admitted the theft of articles from railroad cars.

HARTFORD CITY MAN FINED.

Bluffton, Ind., April 13.—Arthur Jackson, 17, of Hartford City, was fined $3 and costs and sentenced to sixty days in jail for contributing to the delinquency of Miss Ruby Monroe, a Bluffton girl. The fine and costs were paid and the jail sentence was suspended on good behavior.

HAVE FLORAL CEREMONY.

Order of Eastern Star Gives Impressive Easter Program.

Under the auspices of Shiloh chapter, No. 141, Order of the Eastern Star, beautiful and impressive floral ceremonies were conducted Saturday evening at Masonic Temple. Officers in charge were:

Worthy matron, Dr. Harriet Macbeth; worthy patron, Stanley Dushman; associate matron, Mrs. Mary D. Metzger; conductress, Mrs. Elizabeth Brunick; associate conductress, Mrs. Effie Hutchins; Adah, Miss Florence McMillan; Ruth, Miss Helen Emslen; Esther, Miss Maud Wenger; Martha, Miss Leah Underwood; Electa, Miss Mabel Grubb; pianist, Mrs. Anna J. Dushman; marshals, Mrs. Lottie M. Curritt and Mrs. Grace Newingham.

George F. Frier, lessee of the dancing pavilion at Robinson park, is going to enlarge the place before the opening of the season.

City Runs Bureau—It Matches Hearts of Lonesome Folks

P.H. Sheldon.

Houston, Tex., April 13.—This city has the first full-fledged municipal matrimonial bureau ever organized in America.

Mayor Ben Campbell created it and made Paul H. Sheldon secretary, and instructed him to spend all of his time in making matches.

Sheldon introduced nearly 100 men to prospective wives the first week. He has asked for an assistant to help answer letters of inquiry which are coming from many states.

The idea was suggested by a letter to the mayor from a woman in Michigan who asked aid in finding a partner for life.

WIFE COMES RIGHT BACK AT HIM.

Huntington, Ind., April 13.—A few hours after Philip Gennert, of Andrews, filed suit for divorce in the Huntington circuit court he was arrested on a charge of wife desertion and in lieu of bond was placed in the county jail to spend an Easter Sunday lamenting the whirlwind of marital troubles that has disrupted his home within the last few days. Mrs. Gennert told Deputy Haley that her husband had gone out Wednesday to pump a bucket of water but that some sudden notion seized him and he left the bucket half full of water and was not seen afterwards. She said there was but little fuel and food in the house and their one-year-old child was ill.

LADY TEACHER BUYS BIG FARM.

Hartford City, Ind., April 13.—Miss Minnie Scott, a school teacher from the vicinity of Matthews, outbid a field of men and purchased the one-hundred-acre tract belonging to the John K. Armstrong estate, sold by Commissioner John Burns. The price paid was $9,010. Although the field combined against her, Miss Scott kept a cool head and raised each of the bids, getting the farm at a very reasonable price. She bought it for herself and sisters, the Misses Nora and Bertha Scott, stenographers. Other bidders were John Philbaum, Henry Anderson and Walter and Lee Armstrong.

CITY HALL FOR KENDALLVILLE.

Kendallville, Ind., April 13.—Kendallville is to have a new city hall building with Griffith & Fair, of Fort Wayne, as architects. At an adjourned session of the council it was decided to employ the Fort Wayne firm, and while no formal motion was made, it seemed to be understood among the councilmen that these architects are to design a new building according to the desires and needs of the city. The work is to be started just as possible, and not to remodel. For two weeks the council has been considering plans submitted by several firms.

OLD SCHOOLMATES MEET.

Bluffton, Ind., April 13.—A party of alumni of Glendale academy met in Bluffton as the guests of Miss Hermina Weikamp and Mrs. W. W. Rogers and effected a permanent organization at a luncheon at the Bliss hotel. Those present were: Mrs. Joseph Niblick, of Decatur; Miss Harriett, Miss Ethel Stont and Miss Lillian Babbin, of Marion; Miss Helen Hoover, of Hartford City; Mrs. Gotschalk, of Berne, and Miss Margaret Vesey and Mrs. Sam Morris, of Fort Wayne.

TEACHERS LEARN ABOUT THE CANAL

Perry A. Randall Addresses

Big Meeting at New Haven.

TELLS OF ITS NEED

A large audience of school teachers in a hall dozen or more of the township schools outside of Fort Wayne met Saturday afternoon at New Haven and heard from Perry A. Randall, of this city, all the details concerning the construction of the proposed canal from Lake Erie to Lake Michigan. In urging the necessity of the waterway, Mr. Randall said in part:

"The greatest question in the world today, not only in the United States, but everywhere, is that of transportation. Business has become so differentiated and so specialized that no community is longer independent. Every one is dependent on transportation. A few years ago I visited a place, not twenty-five miles from Fort Wayne, in the heart of a farming community ten miles removed from any railroad. At this place there had been formerly a large grist mill, a furniture and coffin factory, a wagon and carriage factory and blacksmith shop and shoe shop. At the time of my visit there was no industry in the town, excepting a general store. This store carried flour and corn meal, all kinds of dried beef, prepared meat and dried fish and bread and canned fruits, and even pork and beans, put up in cans. I asked the proprietor who bought the canned fruit and the dried and smoked meats. He told me that the farmers about there bought all of this material; that they were not able to get help to put up their canned fruits, nor make their smoked meats. They want their dollars to bring them maximum results.

"There are three forms of transportation that are essential to our welfare. The highway, the railway and water. A comparison of the costs of these three modes of transportation is illuminating. One dollar on our ordinary highway will carry a ton one mile. On the very high grades of highways, such as they have in France and England, one dollar will carry a ton six miles or eight miles. One dollar will carry a ton on the railroads one hundred and twenty-seven and one-half miles; on our improved waterways the same dollar will carry a ton one thousand miles and in some instances it will carry it two thousand or three thousand miles.

"Most Important in Nation. "When completed the New York and Chicago canal will be the most important waterway in the nation. This waterway will serve as a spinal column for the transportation business, between the east and the west. The greatest stream of traffic in the nation crosses the northern part of Indiana. This canal starts with this great stream of traffic, crosses it and recrosses it and parallels it from its start to its finish. There are eleven trunk line railroads connecting New York and Chicago. It is impossible, on account of the cost of the terminals in New York and Chicago, to add to this number. It will cost five times as much for the railway terminals in these two big cities, as it will to build and equip a railroad between them. There is no place in the country where traffic is so much congested and there is no place where it is growing so rapidly. We must have relief for this traffic and there is none to be had except through the waterway that we are proposing. As I have shown you water is the cheapest kind of transportation, and the only way to get this water transportation between the middle west and New York, is to build our canal and thus complete the New York and Chicago canal. It will be built. Nothing can prevent this. The only question is where it shall be built and how soon."

G. W. KEISTER DIES.

George W. Keister, aged sixty-three years, well known in Fort Wayne, died Saturday night at Merriam, Noble county, after a prolonged illness from dropsy. He was born in Noble county in 1851 and was a son of the late Samuel Keister. Surviving he leaves the widow and the following children: Omer, Walter, Elvin Keister and Mrs. Letitia Zumbro. He also leaves two grandchildren, two brothers and six sisters. Funeral services were conducted at 10 o'clock this morning from the Christian chapel at Merriam, Rev. Page officiating.

THE SENTINEL'S DAILY SCRIPTURE READING.

Ecclesiastes 1:1-14.

- 1 The words of the Preacher, the son of David, king in Jerusalem.
- 2 Vanity of vanities, saith the Preacher, vanity of vanities; all is vanity.
- 3 What profit hath man of all his labour which he taketh under the sun?
- 4 One generation passeth away, and another generation cometh: but the earth abideth for ever.
- 5 The sun also ariseth, and the sun goeth down, and hasteth to his place where he arose.
- 6 The wind goeth toward the south, and turneth about unto the north; it whirleth about continually, and the wind returneth again according to his circuit.
- 7 All the rivers run into the sea; yet the sea is not full; unto the place from whence the rivers come, thither they return again.
- 8 All things are full of labour; man cannot utter it: the eye is not satisfied with seeing, nor the ear filled with hearing.
- 9 The thing that hath been, it is that which shall be; and that which is done is that which shall be done: and there is no new thing under the sun.
- 10 Is there any thing whereof it may be said, See, this is new? it hath been already of old time, which was before us.
- 11 There is no remembrance of former things; neither shall there be any remembrance of things that are to come with those that shall come after.
- 12 I the Preacher was king over Israel in Jerusalem.
- 13 And I gave my heart to seek and search out by wisdom concerning all things that are done under heaven: this sore travail hath God given to the sons of man to be exercised therewith.
- 14 I have seen all the works that are done under the sun; and, behold, all is vanity and vexation of spirit.

Governor Glynn and the Gunmen.

Governor Glynn, of New York, in repeatedly refusing to yield to plea after plea and appeal after appeal in behalf of the four gunmen, must have been torn by conflicting emotions, but he manifested not only moral courage of a high order, but an exalted conviction of his sworn duty as a public official. In a case so unusual and involving so many accused, it was inevitable that a deal of mawkish sentiment came to the fore, together with much deep and genuine sympathy for the families who were plunged in an agony of grief by the fate of the convicted men. Resistance of the latter is especially difficult, and it is probable no one aside from the governor can appreciate the force of their appeal or the ramifications of the plea made in their behalf. It extended over weeks and was prosecuted with the resourcefulness of skilled lawyers plus the individual endeavor of those whose interest in the convicted men was purely personal and without any relation whatever to the merits of the case.

It is possible, even, that Governor Glynn may be opposed to the principle of capital punishment. The idea of taking life for life may be revolting to him, yet he rightly interpreted his stern duty in the face of the law. The governor was in no wise responsible for the conviction of the men. That was the province of the trial court. It was Glynn's duty only to assure himself that there had developed no new evidence, no subsequent facts that might tend to indicate a reasonable doubt of guilt upon the part of the doomed quartet. With the resources at hand it is entirely probable that had such evidence existed, it would have been developed in the weeks of frantic effort in behalf of the condemned men. To all the appeals and to all the new evidence, Governor Glynn gave painstaking hearing, but when he was unable to find justification for interference, his stand was taken firmly, and he refused to be moved. That it might later be shown that another or others than the four were guilty of the killing is, of course, possible, but hardly within range of probability. Even should this transpire, the responsibility is not Governor Glynn's. The law's decree, fixed after sworn and conscientious deliberation of the trial jury and the rehearing by high courts, has been executed. Grim and repulsive as is the spectacle, it is occasionally the imperative necessity for the safety of society.

Tenth ward citizens are to hold a mass meeting this evening at the James H. Smart school to discuss municipal and civic affairs of importance to that section of the city. The value and importance of these gatherings can hardly be overestimated, for with a city or any particular section of a city unitedly taking active and organized interest in its affairs, it is going to get pretty nearly what it ought to have. Some of the civic improvement associations in Fort Wayne have relaxed a bit in their efforts recently. They ought to keep them going as a very real and vital force for the advancement of Fort Wayne.

The flying squadron of "dry" speakers which is to sweep across the nation is announced to open its campaign in Peoria, Ill., the largest center of whisky manufacturing in the United States. And that's a mighty good place to begin.

The placing of electric lights along the walks on the Wells street bridge is an improvement that will be immensely gratifying to the north side folk as well as to others who have occasion to cross the structure after nightfall. The better illumination has long been needed.

Huerta has apologized to Uncle Sam for the arrest of American marines. Occasionally that man exhibits judgment of such rare quality that one is constrained to wonder how he came to accumulate so many troubles.

PRESS ON VICTORY OF MR. UNDERWOOD.

Has Made Mark.

Providence Journal: "Mr. Underwood has made his mark in national politics. He has shown himself a sane and courageous leader in the lower branch of congress and is richly entitled to promotion."

The People of Alabama.

Pittsburgh Sun: "It is gratifying to learn that the plain people of Alabama were able to draw the distinction between ability and faithful performance of duty and the demagogic appeals to passion."

One of Big Men.

Baltimore American: "Underwood has for some time been one of the most conspicuous figures among the big men of the democratic party. His elevation to the senate will be a distinct gain for the United States senate."

Mr. Hobson.

Baltimore Sun: "Alabama and the country are to be congratulated not only on what we get in Underwood, but on what we escape in Hobson."

An Honest Man.

Philadelphia Inquirer: "Mr. Underwood represents his party and state. He is an anti-protectionist and an honest man according to his lights. There is no suggestion of demagoguery about him."

Truly Representative.

Philadelphia Press: "From the democratic and southern point of view Underwood is doubtless the ablest and most truly representative of any public man that Alabama could at the present time send to the senate."

Courage and Ability.

Washington Star: "He has shown both courage and ability in legislative work. In the senate he will take rank at once, as Mr. Carlisle did a quarter century ago, among the leaders."

"UNTAXING" BUILDINGS.

(Kansas City Star.)

There is a movement in New York city "to untax buildings." The idea of its promoters is that buildings are a good thing for a community and that they ought not to be penalized by taxation.

For three years bills have been before the legislature to permit the voters of the city to decide whether the tax rate on buildings should be reduced to one-half the rate on land by five equal, consecutive, annual reductions. It was urged that this reduction would lead to induce land owners to improve their holdings and would discourage speculation in land.

These bills have been defeated through the influence of the Astors and other large landlords who desire the privilege of speculating in land as much as they please. The societies to lower rents and reduce taxes on homes are now calling for a plan of reducing taxes on buildings 10 per cent. a year for nine years, with a reduction of 9 per cent. the tenth year, leaving the tax rate on buildings 1 per cent. of the tax rate on land values. They estimate that this procedure would result in a material reduction in rents and in taxes on small homes. Among the officers of these societies are two well known clergymen, Percy S. Grant and John Haynes Holmes, Frederic C. Howe, writer on social subjects, and Edwin Markham, the poet.

Vancouver, B. C., has set the example in untaxing buildings, with excellent results. The New York societies are hopeful of arousing a sentiment which will make it possible to adopt the Vancouver plan in the United States.

Twenty-Five Years Ago

What the Sentinel Had to Say About Persons and Events Twenty-Five Years Ago.

Mrs. Max Nirdlinger left yesterday for Minneapolis.

James M. Kane has returned from New York city.

Dr. A. Dodge has formed a partnership with Mr. Brindley, the livery stable man.

Frank Gruber is about to make handsome improvements to his Brackenridge street property.

The side walls for Ryan Bros' stables, on West Washington boulevard, are going up rapidly.

Mason Long will open his evangelistic tour next week. A quartet of singers and the horses are ready for the road.

Hon. J. D. G. Nelson and wife arrived from Indianapolis last night in H. C. Parker's private car.

Hon. Robert Lowry, of this city, is one of the attorneys in a special case in Noble county courts.

O. E. Mohler has resigned his position as city editor of the Gazette and plans to go to Oklahoma.

Fred J. Rooney has recovered from his recent illness and has resumed his place in the money order department at the postoffice.

Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Oschell, of Philadelphia, parents of Mrs. Theodore Lang, have come to Fort Wayne to reside permanently.

Hon. William Fleming has repaired his handsome block on Calhoun street and the grocery firm of Skelton, Watt & Witt will move into it next week.

The new grand jury is composed of James Eward, of St. Joe township; William Branstetter, of Lafayette; John Shaffer, of Milan; George W. Townsend, of Jefferson; William V. Douglas, of the city, and O. D. Rogers, of New Haven.

The county commissioners yesterday awarded the contract for the construction of a bridge to the Milwaukee Engineering company, the structure to cross the Maumee river at either Columbia or Main streets.

Mayor Muhler, City Treasurer Berghoff, City Clerk Rockhill and City Assessor Reese were asked this morning if the city tax levy would be raised; they said it would not. This ought to settle a lot of opposite rumor.

MR. BRYAN GETS 228,953 ANSWERS

Report He Has Sore Throat Brings Flock of Prescriptions.

HE WON'T USE THEM

Washington, April 13.—By special request the American newspapers and probably some European and Asiatic newspapers are announcing that the total number of prescriptions for Mr. Bryan's sore throat is 228,953.

Mr. Bryan, like every one else, has an off day once in a while. His voice sometimes is hoarse. One day, when he was suffering from a cold and his voice sounded as though he had slept in a swamp all night, a newspaper reporter came to see him from Alexandria and at once seized the opportunity to leap into fame by telling the world how the silver-tongued orator was failing as an orator under the strain of being a statesman.

The message was heralded far and wide. The results have been so serious that it is necessary to correct the false impression. Mr. Bryan has received about 228,953 home-made and factory-made prescriptions of throat ease. The Bryan household has become used to queer things in the mails. Turnips, radishes and cabbages are gratefully received, and room would be made for lamas if they could be gotten into the country. But the 228,953 prescriptions for throat ease to be used before every Chautauqua lecture became monotonous.

Mr. Bryan is in as fine speaking trim as ever, perhaps a bit better because of the long rest the cares of state have given to his voice. Mr. Bryan has done very little public speaking since last summer. Whether he will take the stump or the Chautauqua circuit this summer can not now be learned. However, the American public may rest assured that if it becomes necessary for the secretary of state to lend the support of his voice to the cause of progressive democracy, that voice will prove to be as effective in reaching the hearts of his audience as it has ever been.

Big Noise, All Right is Marshall's Wes-Cut

VICE PRESIDENT MARSHALL AND HIS NEW VEST

Loud, but not so democratically loud that it drowns the noise of the canal tolls row, is the new Persian vest that Persian diplomat, Kuli Khan, has presented to Vice President "Tom" Marshall.

"It's just the very thing I wanted," gurgled the head of the senate. "In fact, I always wanted a nice, bright, cheerful vest. The gentleman from Persia seems to have read my mind and he gave me this beautiful thing. I have not counted all of the colors in it yet, but just as soon as the senate calms down a bit I'll take a day off and count 'em. Anyway, I'm glad it wasn't the Chinese ambassador that read my mind. I'd hate to have to wear a kimono."

Society

The vaudeville performance at the Temple theater tonight has been arranged especially for the members of the Allen County Orphans' Home Junior society to derive a percentage for the benefit of the home. The members of the society have worked hard to sell tickets and hope to make an amount that will be of practical benefit. One local act will be given. It will be a dance by Miss Virginia Olds. Miss Olds will not dance alone but with Edwin Hawkins, of Huntington, and their numbers will include the Maxine and the Argentine.

Miss Nina Messenger left today for Eaton Rapids, Mich., where she makes her home with her uncle, J. J. Flynn, formerly freight agent for the Lake Shore railway in this city. Miss Messenger will be married on Wednesday to Floyd W. Parks, a druggist of Eaton Rapids. The bride and groom will take a trip to Saginaw and points in Canada and will make their home in Eaton Rapids. Miss Messenger is very well known in this city. She is a handsome young woman whose amiability and other sweet and womanly characteristics have won many friends.

Mr. and Mrs. John Druhot, of East Williams street, have announced the engagement of their daughter, Bonnie, to Leo J. Hienbach. The wedding will take place in May. Mr. Hienbach is a partner in the firm of Alarding & Hienbach and both he and Miss Druhot enjoy the esteem and affection of many friends.

Mr. and Mrs. Chester Law, of Napoleon, O., spent Easter with Mr. and Mrs. W. N. Noble.

Mrs. Harry Perfect will entertain the Monday Evening Bridge club this evening.

Mrs. J. E. Felts, of 1444 Clifton avenue, will entertain the Athena club tomorrow afternoon.

Mrs. Ella Wolf and Mrs. Don Rhoades have returned from Blue Cave Springs much benefited in health by a few weeks' stay there.

There will be a meeting of the Pickwick Literature club tomorrow afternoon with Mrs. Hughes, 2019 California avenue.

Misses Jane Safford, Helen Watt and Julia Kelsey have returned to their studies in Indianapolis, where they attended private schools.

Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Bond and daughter, Barbara, who are visiting Mr. and Mrs. Frank L. Brown, will return to Chicago tomorrow.

The Fortnightly club guest meeting will be held on April 27 instead of on the date announced in the year book of the club.

The Book Reviewers club will meet tomorrow with Mrs. J. G. Thiem. Mrs. John Heller will be the reviewer for the day.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Shuler, of Holton avenue, went to Blue Springs today for a three weeks' stay. Mr. Shuler has work in landscape gardening there.

Edward McDonald, a student at Notre Dame university, is the guest of his grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Edward Gilman, sr., of this city.

Mr. and Mrs. Frank Taylor have returned from Mackinac island, where they went immediately following the passing away of Mrs. Taylor's mother, as Mackinac was the former home of the family.

Mr. and Mrs. Emil Koepfel, of 711 West Berry street, are entertaining Mr. Koepfel's mother, Mrs. Emil Koepfel, of Phareid, Ontario, Canada, and Mrs. A. J. Gilmore of St. Catherine's, Ontario.

Mr. Stone, of New York, who is to play the accompaniments for Miss Helen Loos, tomorrow night at her recital at the Majestic theater, will be the guest of J. Ross McCulloch during the time he is in the city. Mr. Stone gives a recital in Lima, O., this evening.

Mr. and Mrs. Paul J. Speltz and daughter, Marge, have returned to Grand Rapids, after a week's stay in the city. Though guests at the Anthony hotel, Mr. and Mrs. Speltz were entertained at small affairs for which Mr. and Mrs. W. D. Henderson, Mr. and Mrs. Perry Archer and Mrs. Edith Andrews were the hosts.

The many friends in this city of Julia Marie Taylor will read with interest that she has joined the ranks of active suffragists. In an account of the recent election day voting in New York city the New York Tribune devotes considerable space to an account of the Women's Political union and gives Miss Taylor's name as one of those prominent and on duty for a part of the time. Miss Taylor's picture is also prominent in a group of women pictured with the story.

PRETTY ENGAGEMENT PARTY.

Beautiful Affair in Lima at Mrs. Frank Cutshall's Home.

(Lima Times-Democrat.)

To announce the engagement in marriage of Miss Helen Dean, sister of Mrs. Frank H. Cutshall, of 573 West Spring street, Mrs. Cutshall and Miss Dean presided at a tea of artistic appointments this afternoon. Miss Dean will become the bride of Arthur J. Wilmanns, of Milwaukee, Wis., early in the autumn season. The colors of the rainbow were carried out in the color scheme. A rustic green basket, filled with various-colored spring flowers, occupied the center of the table in the dining room. Throughout the remainder of the rooms of the Cutshall home bouquets of crimson roses added their sweet fragrance and rare beauty. Tea, a la buffet, was served.

As Miss Helen Kerr entered the dining room, she carried in her arms a bridal basket of nosegays. The basket was tied with great bows of tulle and the nosegay bouquets were of the various colors, simulating those in the rainbow. The ribbons which were attached to the small bouquets were tiny envelopes and when these were opened, the happy secret was told, for the small holders contained the cards of both Miss Dean and Mr. Wilmanns. Upon Miss Dean and Mr. Wilmanns, who was present, were a profusion of good wishes and showers of congratulations bestowed by the merry company. Miss Dean originally comes from Eau Claire, Wis. Since the going away of her parents, she has resided with her sister, Mrs. Cutshall, and has come to be so loved in every circle of society that she is claimed as Lima's very own. She is at present teaching in the vocational schools of Fort Wayne, Ind. Miss Dean has that charm of manner and sweetness of character that endears her to everyone and in the city she has very many friends. In social circles she has been a leader and her place is an enviable one. Mr. Wilmanns comes from one of the oldest families in Milwaukee. He is associated with the firm of the Wilmanns company, lithographers, which has left its mark on the commercial side of the Wisconsin city. He is a graduate of the University of Wisconsin and a young man of sterling worth. The marriage will form a union of two of the oldest and best known families of the state. Mr. Wilmanns is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Adolph Wilmanns. The tea was arranged as a courtesy for the Misses Wilmanns, sisters of the bridegroom-elect, who, with him, arrived this evening and will remain until Sunday evening, when they leave for their college duties at the University of Michigan and at the Milwaukee Dwyer college. The latter institution being the alma mater of Miss Dean, also.

At the Majestic.

Chicago Symphony Orchestra Wednesday Evening.

The Chicago Symphony orchestra—Frederick Stock, conductor—which has come to be recognized as one of the foremost organizations of its kind in the world, is to give a concert at the Majestic theater in Fort Wayne next Wednesday evening, April 15. This orchestra, although just closing the twenty-third season of its existence, has never had but two conductors—Theodore Thomas, its lamented founder, who directed its movements for the first thirteen years and a few weeks, and his successor, Frederick Stock, who in the last ten years has proved himself a worthy successor.

This orchestra gives a season of twenty-eight weeks—two concerts per week—in its home city. This is said to be the longest series of concerts given under one conductor anywhere in the world, and in addition to the above numerous extra concerts are necessary to supply the demand. At intervals, when the travel will not interfere with the regular work at home, short tours, usually not more than three days' duration, are given, and it is on one of these trips that the orchestra comes to Fort Wayne on its way home from Cleveland where it plays three concerts each season. A program of unusual merit has been prepared and it should appeal to all classes.

St. Louis German Stock Company Thursday Evening.

In February we had the opportunity of seeing the celebrated German Players from the new Victoria theater in St. Louis, under the able management of Hans Luedel, and everybody who saw them in "Gold Lottie," a musical farce, was more than pleased with the entertainment they offered. It was most natural that Director Luedel be encouraged to visit us once more during this season and Thursday night of this week has been chosen for the reappearance of

At the Temple.

Easter Monday evening will see but one performance at the Temple theater, as tonight is to be given the benefit performance for the Allen County Home for Orphans. The performance will be at 8:30 o'clock and in addition to the excellent entertainment afforded by the "Pinafore Kiddies" and "The Midtown Minstrels," Miss Maude Larimore and Guy Laurence will contribute a clever singing and dancing sketch, donating their services to the cause. The tickets for this special performance will be fifty cents and the net proceeds will be devoted to the home.

Tomorrow afternoon the Temple will again observe teapoon matinee, when every lady will be presented with a handsome silver teapoon. The Corner Grocery will be opened again Tuesday evening on the Temple stage. Twenty-five handsome presents, including two complete dinner sets, will be given away by the Corner Grocery.

An up to date tabloid version of the great opera, H. M. S. Pinafore is the unique setting for the clever conception done by the "Pinafore Kiddies," twenty-five bright sweet voiced youngsters. Interpolated in the action are a half score popular songs sung by these juvenile stars.

Creighton Brothers and Belmont's huge burlesque on minstrelsy is a riot. These three young men, garbed as small town clowns, stage an entire minstrel first part.

The great Keith prize ring romance, "The Jas. Bean," with a company of twenty people, will be the feature of the week-end bill opening Thursday. Joe Heather, the wonderful little English comedienne, the best dressed woman in vaudeville; the Minstrel Four, another of Fort Wayne's old friends; the Langdons and the Two Kerns and other big features will be included in this bill.

At the Empress.

The new bill at the Empress, one of straight vaudeville, will find immense favor among the amusement lovers during the current week. It fairly teems with clean cut comedy, good singing and enjoyable instrumental music. One of the rare treats is the playing of the selection from the big operatic success, "Adele," by the very efficient Empress orchestra under the direction of Prof. Jackson.

Rosair and Prevost present an acrobatic act that is different. While there is some tumbling, it is mingled with a line of comedy that is at once interesting and amusing. "Rustling and Manley offer what they style an "incident from real life," and as the plot and counterplots are unrolled this can be readily believed. Haight Deane and Co. present "In the Hills," a pleasing little skit in which a woman who is a man-hater and a man who is a woman-hater are revealed as the principal characters. How they are made to change their views regarding matrimony makes an interesting incident of the playlet.

Kitty Flynn is a ragtime singer par excellence. The Majestic Musical Four contribute much melody and merriment. A blackface funster creates the comedy and the four play various brass instruments, finishing with a very pretentious number on the xylophones. The moving pictures, as usual, are of the comedy sort.

A Glimpse Into a Girl's Heart

(By Winnie Lee.)

Never before in the history of woman's emotions would it have been possible for a girl to make the frank confession contained in the letter which follows:

"Dear Miss Lee: I am 18 and I never had a boy friend in my life. Often when I see other girls younger than I am going to high school dances, my eyes fill with tears. I can not dress as the other girls do, but I am as pretty as some of them, and I get my lessons better than most of them. I could never have fine clothes to go to dances. Maybe that is why I am never asked.

"And now I am going to tell you the truth. I know of other girls who feel this way, too. I want to be cared for by someone who will think more of me than of anybody else in the world. I want to be an inspiration to someone. I want to give an unselfish love for an unselfish love. But all I can ever hope for is the knowledge that I am doing what is right, for I do not think that any man will ever bestow his love upon me. There are lots of girls who feel this way. ## LITTLE GIRLS' GOWNS WILL BE JUST LIKE GROWN-UP LADIES' DRESSES

There will not be much gingham worn this year, even in children's frocks. The manufacturers, however, have made many of the new cotton weaves into gingham patterns.

While the new loosely woven ratines will probably not wear as long as gingham, they are softer and prettier than standard material for children's school dresses.

Brown and yellow plaid ratine makes a smart school frock for a little girl eight to ten years old. The skirt is perfectly plain, somewhat gathered at the belt, and the waist is cut in kimono shape, left open in front to show a white cotton dorette waistcoat. The collar and cuffs are of handkerchief linen, hemstitched.

Most children will wear the low-heeled "baby doll" slippers this summer, and white stockings will be worn to the exclusion of any other color.

have all kinds of popularity. Can you give a word of comfort to us girls who are called 'slow'?

X. X. X.

Such a frank confession of an emotion which is natural to every normal girl, an emotion which she has been taught to conceal and fib about for centuries, is among the first products of modern feminism. But she is a pessimist. She is thinking too much of herself and too little of others. She needs a wider horizon, and that she can discover for herself.

With her ability to see truth, as well as her courage to speak it, she will never find life dull.

The world, dear girl, is full of a number of things besides boys. Find congenial work, busy yourself with that, and perhaps, when you least expect it, love will find you out. If it doesn't—well, you have your work to do—you can not be altogether unhappy.

To remove rust from a knife plunge the blade into an onion and leave it for an hour. Then polish in the usual way.

Before using a new comb wash it in soapy water, and when dry rub with a little olive oil. It will then last twice as long.

TITLED MOTHER AND DAUGHTER RESEMBLE EACH OTHER REMARKABLY.

There is quite a remarkable likeness between this royal mother and daughter.

The foreheads are similar. The eyebrows arch in the same way. The eyes are alike and the contour of the profile shows a very strong resemblance.

The chins and noses are so nearly the same that there could be no question about the relation of the two titled women.

The older woman is the duchess of Cornwall and the girl is her daughter, the Princess Patricia.

ANNIVERSARY SALE

EIGHTEEN YEARS OLD this week---how time flies! It seems but a few years since this store, now the greatest institution of its kind in northern Indiana, had its modest beginning in quarters that would be lost if set down inside the present building. We've been successful, but a success that is well earned. Our efforts at serving the public have been untiring. We have striven at all times to offer the best merchandise at the lowest prices, with the result that our business has grown steadily---wonderfully---a growth built substantially upon integrity and fair dealing.

So we think we have something to celebrate, and starting tomorrow we are going to follow our regular custom of reversing the usual order of giving and receiving, and hold our usual Anniversary and Orphans' Benefit Sale

2 1/2 Per Cent. of the Week's Cash Sales Donated to the Orphans' Homes.

SHOP AND RAILROAD NEWS

EIGHT CARS ARE DERAILED

Entire Passenger Train on Pennsylvania Jumps Tracks at Indiana Harbor.

NONE KILLED NOR BADLY INJURED

Pollock Elevator at Middle-point Wrecked When Cars Back Against It.

Pennsylvania westbound passenger train No. 11 performed a phenomenal feat Saturday night at Indiana Harbor, when its eight cars were derailed and not a single person was injured. The accident was due, it is said, to a part of the mechanism of engine coming loose and lodging in a switch in such manner as to derail all the cars. The train was in charge of Conductor Frank E. Linder, with Engineer Michael O'Brien and Fireman F. A. Lindner in the cab. The tracks were blocked awhile and trains 6 and 10 were delayed thirty to sixty minutes.

WAS EXPERT WITH DYNAMITE.

Cleaned Up Wabash Bridge Wreckage in Short Order.

The completion of the temporary bridge at Attica which was torn down when the Wabash continental limited was wrecked here on Sunday, April 5, was brought about three or four days sooner than expected through the work of a "hobo" who proved to be an expert in the handling of dynamite. The story is thus told by the Penn Chronicle:

"When the wreck train was called at Decatur, to come to Attica Sunday afternoon a man poorly clad with dirty face and ragged clothes stepped up to the foreman and asked as to the nature of the wreck and when told that a train had gone through a bridge, stated that he was a dynamiter and might be of great assistance in the clearing along. He told of having helped blow up the wreck of the Maine in Havana harbor and of numerous other jobs of a similar nature and of having been employed to do dynamiting in many different countries besides the United States. He was finally given permission to ride the train to Attica, and although he talked intelligently of his travels little credence was placed in his stories by those on the train. When the train arrived at Attica he was allowed to tell his opinion of the best way to get rid of the debris of the old bridge and so well did he show a knowledge of the proper way of handling the wreckage that he was given charge of this end of the work by the Wabash officials. Dynamite was secured and a large number of men put at his disposal and the cause of the new bridge being in place now six days sooner than could ordinarily have been expected. He worked with a vengeance and was very exacting with the men under his charge at whom he swore in several different languages when their work did not suit him.

"As well as being a dynamiter he claimed to have been a diver and as a knowledge of the positions in which the wreckage lay under the water was of great value in determining just where the charges should be placed, a rush message was sent to Detroit for a diver's suit, on the arrival of which the hobo showed that he was perfectly at home in the work at hand. "It is probable that the hobo, a victim of circumstances, will receive a substantial reward and a vote of thanks from the officials of the road when he completes his work at Attica, having accomplished as he did in three days that which would have taken the railroad men about three times as long, and at a much less expense than would have been that of the company's men."

JOHN BENNINGTON DELEGATE.

At the meeting in the Aldine hall last Saturday night, No. 17, the local branch of the Amalgamated Association of Iron, Tin and Steel Workers, John Bennington was elected delegate to the convention of the national organization at Columbus, Ohio, in May. Mr. Bennington is employed at the Fort Wayne Rolling mill, where he is regarded as one of the most skilled and valuable employees. He has taken an active part in the Iron, Steel and Tin Workers' association for some years and was one of the most influential leaders at Fort Wayne when the international convention met here in 1910 and 1912.

ENTERTAINING BROTHER FROM GERMANY.

Henry and Charles Israel are entertaining their brother, William Israel, of Bielefeld, Germany, who is here in his first visit to America. William Israel conducts a blacksmith business in his home town and is one of its most prominent citizens. He came over with Herman Brandt, one of his boyhood associates, who returned home last week after a three months' visit in Germany.

SOME CLERKS PROMOTED.

The resignation two weeks ago of Leo Herber as assistant to Chief Clerk Fred W. Schaphorst, at the Pennsylvania machine shop, has resulted in some promotions effective today. Gerald A. Leeper was promoted to assistant chief clerk, succeeding Mr. Herber. Elmer Wobke was transferred from assistant to power work clerk, Henry Statte to the machine shop office to succeed Mr. Leeper, and H. F. Tolley was employed as assistant power work clerk.

FUNERAL OF S. A. D. HEATH.

S. A. D. Heath, foreman of the G. R. & I. round house at Kalamazoo, whose death occurred Saturday morning, will be buried Wednesday afternoon at Waco, Mich. Funeral services will be held in Kalamazoo at 3 o'clock Wednesday afternoon and immediately afterwards the remains will be taken to Waco. Some of the Fort Wayne friends of the deceased, including Road Foreman of Engines A. L. Lapschire, will attend the funeral.

SMASHED AN ELEVATOR.

Extra train 9207 on the Pennsylvania, which was doing some work at Middle-point, Ohio, put the Pollock elevator out of commission and came mighty near totally wrecking it this morning. The engine was pushing a string of cars down the tracks, when they went off the end and smashed into the elevator with terrific force. Some of the cars were also damaged, but none of the crew was hurt. The train was in charge of Conductor Howley.

CHANGE AT WABASH OFFICE.

Chief Clerk George Miller, of the Wabash freight office, has employed O. V. Crow as bill clerk. He takes the place of J. B. Ghendain, who has taken an indefinite leave of absence to help his father with the farm work near South Whitley. Mr. Crow was formerly employed at the Pennsylvania freight office.

WILL BE FARMERS FOR AWHILE

W. R. and C. R. McCammon, Pennsylvania firemen, have obtained a sixty days' furlough. They will go to their

Chinese Minister Western in Ideas

K. F. Shah and son.

New York, April 12. Ambassador K. F. Shah, who holds from the Chinese republic, where the people are supposed to be real oriental, is a genuine occidental so far as his clothes, manners and ideas are concerned. He is the first republican minister to this country from China. He carries out the western ideas in the dress and upbringing of his little son, Baron.

father's farm, near LaPorte, and assist with the farm work the coming summer. Business on the road is not very heavy and the demand for their services as firemen not urgent.

TWENTY PER CENT. DECREASE.

Freight traffic is 20 per cent. less and passenger traffic between 15 and 18 per cent. less on the Pennsylvania at present than it was a year ago. This is a falling off in business of about one-fifth and as a result there are not as many crews in service as there were a year ago and those retained, except the regularly assigned men, are not getting as much work as they would like.

FRANK SCHIED HERE.

Frank Schied, foreman of the Pennsylvania shops at Toledo, is in the city, the guest of his father, P. J. Schied, foreman of the Pennsylvania car machine shop. Mr. Schied learned his trade in the Pennsylvania shops and is well known to the older employees there. He spent an hour or two this morning circulating among them. Mr. Schied will return home tonight.

GONE EAST TO MEET DELANO.

H. E. Thomson, private secretary to President E. A. Delano, of the Monon, passed through the city last night en route to Washington to meet Mr. Delano, who has been there on business connected with the proposed rate increase in freight traffic. Mr. Thomson formerly lived in Fort Wayne and worked at the Wabash offices.

TRI-STATE MAKES SPLENDID REPORT

Declare Dividend After Carrying $32,000 to Surplus Fund.

IS AMONG LEADERS

The Tri-State Loan and Trust company, of Fort Wayne, has just made a remarkable report, which, according to officials, places the company at the head of all trust companies in the state, outside of Indianapolis.

The board of directors, at its last session, declared the regular dividend and carried the sum of $32,000 to the surplus fund, making the total surplus $286,700.

The prosperity of trust companies means much to Fort Wayne. They furnish real estate security for money deposited and help to build and construct a city. Upon trust companies largely depends the building of the city and the fact that a trust company prospers is the best indication of the growth and substantiality for the city.

RESOLUTIONS ARE ADOPTED.

Y. W. C. A. Board in Tribute to Miss Tinkham and Miss Williams.

The board of managers of the Young Woman's Christian association has given a gracious tribute of praise to Miss Tinkham and Miss Williams, and an expression of regret at the resignation of these two officials. Resolutions, submitted by Mrs. A. J. Vesey, Mrs. M. S. Willson and Mrs. J. S. House as a committee, have been adopted as follows: "Miss Cora E. Tinkham came to the association in 1907 as assistant secretary, filling the position so acceptably that in 1910 she was called to be general secretary.

"Resolved, That we extend to Miss Tinkham our deep appreciation of her earnest and faithful work through all these years.

"Her efforts to upbuild the association along lines of large usefulness and great benefit to all who needed its help have been worked out with the spirit of the Master. Especially during the building campaign was her splendid work in evidence. Our success in obtaining our new home was largely due to her efforts.

"To Miss Mary Williams we owe the very great success of our lunch department. Taking charge of that work at a time when the outlook was very discouraging she has brought it to a degree of efficiency seldom obtained.

"To her, therefore, we express our high appreciation for her valuable services, not only in her own department, but in the other departments where she so willingly gave her help.

"We assure Miss Tinkham and Miss Williams that pleasant recollections shall remain in our hearts and that it is with deepest regret that we consent to their retirement from these important positions."

Miss Laura Kreigh, of Hope hospital, spent Sunday with relatives and friends at Bluffton.

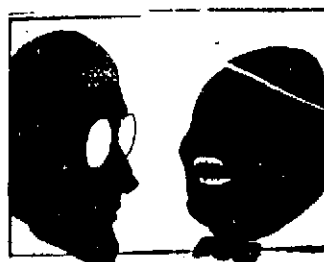

NOTICE TO PUBLIC!

The Traction company and all of its conductors greatly appreciate the manner and good spirit of the patrons of the cars in which they are co-operating with the use of the new Fare Boxes.

As a further aid to better service, passengers who desire to transfer will receive their transfer ticket at time of paying fare, thus avoiding delay and confusion. Transfers are good only in a continuous direction on the first car leaving the transfer point next after the arrival of the passenger at such transfer point.

Job May Have His Troubles, But-- BY MACDONALD.

HENS LAY EGGS; LITTLE FOLKS TAKE PRIZE; UNIQUE CONTEST LOTS OF FUN.

Park, Ridge, Ill., has an egg-laying contest. And the hens are not in the contest either. They lay the eggs, of course, but the Park Ridge kids—48 of them—will gather in the prizes. Each young chicken farmer has entered one coop of hens in the contest. Each day the youngsters inspect the coops, and when they find the hens on the job, the bunch raise a cackle that echoes around the town—but an awful howl is heard when a hen fails to perform her daily duty. The judges collect the eggs each evening, and the entire population gathers at the town hall to hear the scores that are announced nightly. The coop producing the most eggs during the contest will be declared champion. But there will be cups and prizes for each of the 48 young chicken farmers.

The Sentinel's Short Story

Mr. Skiddings pilots THE ONADEKA SQUAWS

By L. H. BICKFORD.

(Copyright, 1914, by the Newspaper Enterprise Association.)

Pork Skiddings had been four weeks late getting back to Clark street. Matty Morse, of the Chin Yen chop suey house, usually looked for him when the post-season baseball games started. This year the games were won and lost and October lengthened into November, when late one morning, just after Morse had settled with his Chinese partner, a wanderer entered wearily and leaned over the cigar case.

"Here now, you," Morse began, "this is no—"

And there he stopped. Behind the stubble of beard he recognized his friend. Clinking the cash drawer, he led the way down the deserted room toward a screen in one corner, gave Pork a chair, and took a seat opposite.

"Now, then," he asked, "how did it happen?"

Pork looked warily about. "It was last May, when I thought it was about time for the summer lay that I answered the ad for the bright young man who knew something of the country, and who was wanted to take charge of a novel touring proposition at a good salary and all expenses paid; must be sober, reliable, courteous, and of good address; my very picture. So we met."

"I liked the tone of your letter," says she, "for it showed refinement and was right to the point, although, of course, I had hundreds and hundreds of answers. I have been managing the All-Star female baseball club, but that game don't pay any more. The public wants novelty. Now, you've heard of lady baseball clubs before—I don't claim to have originated 'em, but they're out of date."

"Here she arises and goes to her trunk, and therefrom takes a long poster with a picture on it of what looked like a half-back dressed in a baseball suit. And it read: 'The Onadeka Squaws, the only female Indian baseball club in the world, right off the Onadeka reservation, by permission of the government,' and she says: 'That's the wrinkle, now, wouldn't you think of it? My dear Mr. Skiddings, you see one of the squaws before you, and before long you will see the others.'

"She explained the grand tour. 'We have a private car, and it seems to me that these dark wigs, which you see are combed straight, Indian fashion, will help the illusion. We shall wear short skirts, like the cowgirls in the musical comedies, and, of course, plenty of beads. As for our complexions—but that is a woman's secret. Mr. Skiddings, that I do not suppose interests you. I can only say that we shall certainly look the part when in action. As for you, all you have to do is to watch the financial end of the enterprise and act as interpreter. You need anticipate no trouble'—how well I now recall those words. 'If you are discreet, and I should consider $100 a month and expenses not too much for the right sort of an assistant. I will not give you the preface of the getaway, and will dwell lightly on our arrival at the first stand, at Outworks, Iowa, where Miss Sadie Delaney had looked up by mail."

"We drove into Outworks early in the morning and were left on a siding. I got out about 8 o'clock to go and look up the manager of the Outworks Blues, and I found him to be the town plumber."

"The bus came at 2, and the All-Squaws wrapped themselves in long blankets and trooped out the back of the car while the seething populace looked on and said things, and then followed us on out to the park. The Blues were a likely looking lot of young fellows, at that, and I want to say for 'em that they did not get funny."

"Onadeka Squaws—Rippling Water, 1b; Eye-of-the-Fawn, cf; Morning Sun, ss; Wind-of-the-Prairie, 2b; Dust-of-the-Dawn, rf; Evening Star, 2b; Singing Snowbird, lf; Moonbeam Blossom, c; Floating Fawn, p."

"Outworks Blues—Mulligan, rf; Casey, 3b; Steffenhouse, lf; Harry, cf; Jones, 1b; Dinkelschweil, cf; Moran, 2b; Swigert, ss; Overhite, p."

"There," said Pork, "you have the cast of characters, all thought out by Miss Delaney. Floating Fawn, the left-handed champion female baseball pitcher and hand-out of wide ones over the plate, and down-shoots and out-curves and all that goes to hushouse the batter. And, for that, it didn't take me long to see that she knew her business, for she struck out six of the Outworks lads in the first three innings, and brought in two Squaws with a three-bagger in the fifth. I am not giving you this game with a box-score attachment. All I want to tell you is how we broke in on the grand tour at Outworks, cleaned up $350, and beat the Blues—11 to 8."

"And so we came to the 6th of September and Ranger, New Mexico. Miss Sadie Delaney herself aroused me by entering my traveling boudoir and shaking me by the shoulder."

"I speak of the events of the afternoon as one who, looking into the past, finds that his mental camera does not take all the details. It was a different crowd from any we had played to. Most of the grandstand seats seemed to have been taken by cowboys and sheep herders."

"Miss Sadie Delaney was in fine form that afternoon—the best form I'd ever seen her in for the first six innings—and it was a case of the braves whirling the air about two an inning and returning to the bench to talk it over and try to fix up a scheme to get onto her curves. And, for that matter, I think if she could have played all nine positions, things would have turned out different. But I could see that she was not getting her customary support. First, Evening Star would let a sure thing get through her fingers at third, and then, in trying to back her up, Singing Snowbird would come cawtering in from the field, grab the ball and shy it three feet over the head of Rippling Water at first. This happened three times running, and the Navajos scored on every error. But the worst happened in the seventh, when Standing Bear, the captain of the real thing Indians, finally landed on Sadie Delaney for a two-base hit, and this put her so far up in the air that she passed the next two men. Here were the bases full and nobody out, and Miss Mazie Magoon hopping about the infield and only keeping her mouth shut by her marvelous self-control. Well, here it happened. The next batter up was Lone Crow, their second sacker. He lifted a high pop over toward my little friend

"Is there anything unusual, ma'am?" I asks, trying to collect myself.

"Is there anything unusual?" she repeats, and then she lifts a corner of the curtain and says: 'Look there!'

"I look. The car is surrounded by Indians. They are fraternizing all around us, and they are not theatrical Indians, made on Broadway, in any respect. I look at Miss Sadie Delaney."

"It seems," says she, "that this town is somewhere near an Indian reservation, and that in writing here for a date I got hold of the wrong party. We are not to play the Ranger Browns, champions of Chinichilla county, but a real club from the agency, and even now the committee is hammering at the back door of the car asking for an interpreter. But, nevertheless, you must meet these gentlemen and see us through while I get the ladies ready. Sadie Delaney was never bluffed yet."

The ball rolled out into the field, and the Navajos went hastily around the diamond until it was discovered that Lone Crow had cleared the bases and made a home run on a bum error. But that was not all. As Lone Crow went fleeing on his way he ran into Miss Mazie Magoon and spiked her left foot."

"Right here Miss Magoon tore loose and talked New York."

"You great big, awkward, pig-footed slob," says she, following Lone Crow down to third and then on home, "you unspeakable brutes! I've a notion to hand you one in your ugly face!" and with that, while Miss Sadie Delaney looks on horrified, she lets fly at the son of the prairie and then takes him by one ear and twists him around until he writhes with pain. He was very much astonished. Up to that time the Navajo Reds had been going ahead winning their own business in solid Indian fashion and taking advantage of the Squaws' errors, but ball game ever played. See emancipated Indian womanhood play their former lords and masters."

"And if a train had come down the other track just then, Pork Skiddings, the celebrated interpreter, would have gone on his way and this adventure would end right here."

"Up and down the tracks were camped the noble red men and their wives. The Squaws were priming for the afternoon, and I relate to Miss Sadie Delaney. 'I am afraid the Indians are suspicious,' I says, 'and if you take my advice you'll play this game in double-quick time and hike for the train. I'll leave an order to have the car backed down to the depot to be shoved right onto the five-five minute it gets in.' But Miss Sadie Delaney didn't seem fazed a bit. 'All I ask of you,' she says, somewhat cockily, 'is to keep sober.' And with that, what she turns to combing out her Indian wig and declaring to Miss Mazie Magoon, that, after all, one man is like another."

"The Squaws came out in single file, while the real things crowded up to watch 'em and habled after 'em and seemed more or less sore over the whole proposition."

"I speak of the events of the afternoon as one who, looking into the past, finds that his mental camera does not take all the details. It was a different crowd from any we had played to. Most of the grandstand seats seemed to have been taken by cowboys and sheep herders."

And, for that matter, I think if she could have played all nine positions, things would have turned out different. But I could see that she was not getting her customary support. First, Evening Star would let a sure thing get through her fingers at third, and then, in trying to back her up, Singing Snowbird would come cawtering in from the field, grab the ball and shy it three feet over the head of Rippling Water at first. This happened three times running, and the Navajos scored on every error. But the worst happened in the seventh, when Standing Bear, the captain of the real thing Indians, finally landed on Sadie Delaney for a two-base hit, and this put her so far up in the air that she passed the next two men. Here were the bases full and nobody out, and Miss Mazie Magoon hopping about the infield and only keeping her mouth shut by her marvelous self-control. Well, here it happened. What Three Great Men on Vacation Trip Together Found to Talk About Edison's New Discovery on Life, Ford's Real Reason for Profit-Sharing Plan, and Burroughs's Secret of Old Age.

BIRTHDAYISMS BY "GRAND OLD MAN OF AMERICA."

"If I were to speak to all the men of the world as friends today I would tell them that this is the true secret of happiness—not to overtax nature for any reason; not to overwork, not to overeat and not to overplay."

"I have just returned from a vacation with Thomas Edison and Henry Ford. We discussed the mystery of life and death together. I believe Edison has made a vast discovery in the theory of life he has evolved."

"Ford told me the real reason for his plan for co-partnership. It is a plan whereby he hopes to gather in his shop the most efficient force of workers in any industry in the whole world. The important thing is that he will have imitators and that will help mankind in its great fight for human uplift."

(By H. P. Burton.)

New York, April 13.—I am just back from a five-mile walk and a five-mile talk with "the grand old man of America," the great, wise John Burroughs, naturalist and lover of all nature, who this day is celebrating his seventy-seventh birthday.

"I am young at 77," said John Burroughs, "because I have practiced the art of careful living. I have had respect for my body."

"In my life I have avoided all stimulants, because I have wanted to be a natural human being. I do not enjoy the unnatural excitement. I am cheered and exhilarated by drinking a glass of pure water. My food tastes good and refreshes me. I do not know what a sleepless night means. I do not worry about tomorrow."

MEAT INJURIOUS TO THE KIDNEYS

Take a tablespoonful of Salts if Back hurts or Bladder bothers.

We are a nation of meat eaters and our blood is filled with uric acid, says a well-known authority, who warns you to be constantly on guard against kidney trouble.

The kidneys do their utmost to free the blood of this irritating acid, but become weak from the overwork; they get sluggish; the eliminative tissues clog and thus the waste is retained in the blood to poison the entire system. When your kidneys ache and feel like lumps in the back or the urine is cloudy, full of sediment, or the bladder is irritable, obliging you to seek relief during the night; when you have severe headaches, nervous and dizzy spells, sleeplessness, acid stomach or rheumatism in bad weather, get from your pharmacist about four ounces of Jad Salts; take a tablespoonful in a glass of water before breakfast each morning and in a few days your kidneys will act fine. This famous salts is made from the acid of grapes and lemon juice, combined with lithia, and has been used for generations to flush and stimulate clogged kidneys, to neutralize the acids in uric acid, so it is no longer a source of irritation, thus ending urinary and bladder disorders. Jad Salts is inexpensive and cannot injure; makes a delightful effervescent lithia-water drink, and nobody can make a mistake by taking a little occasionally to keep the kidneys clean and active. —Ads.

"If I were to speak to all men as friends, I would tell them I believe this is the true secret of happiness—I would tell them that the great crime is to overtax nature on any account. I would tell them not to overwork, not to overeat and not to overplay; not to indulge in any excess."

"Perhaps I am more fortunate than the average man. I have worked hard for more than fifty years, but at writing, and more or less free to come and go. I have not been hindered by the stress of business or politics, nor have I ever been compelled to bow to the will of an employer."

"The greatest blessing that could come to the people of the world would be some force that would drive them all into the open air for three or four hours every day of their lives. Oh, if we could just get every man and woman to love to walk, to look up into the trees, to feel the glory of the sun and thrill with the music of the great outdoors."

"I have just returned from a vacation in Florida with Thomas A. Edison and Henry Ford. We lived in the open and walked and climbed about the country and studied nature, particularly bird life. Edison is a great chemist, perhaps the greatest one in this country, and he is also a wonderful philosopher. Ford revels in outdoor life and is the patron saint of wild birds."

"We three talked a great deal about the mystery of life. Edison holds to the theory that the body is a sort of shell inhabited by a great number of atoms that have separate lives."

"For instance, the body of a man is made up of millions of separate atoms, each being a little person. Thus, your

ENRICH MUSEUM OUT OF JUNGLE

Great Zoological Finds Are Enroute to America.

WORK OF FIVE YEARS

New York, April 13.—Thirty-five tons of specimens, the largest collection of zoological and ethnological objects ever gathered by a scientific expedition from this country, is being borne from the center to the coast of Africa on its way to the American Museum of Natural History, in this city. Details of the movements of this great consignment were given in a letter received at the institution from James Chapin, a member of the expedition. The museum five years ago sent out Herbert Lang and Mr. Chapin, who was a sophomore at Columbia university, to make searches in Africa for specimens. Mr. Lang, leader of the expedition, is a man of long experience in scientific work. The two were greatly assisted in the Congo country by the British government, and wherever they went officials arranged for bearers and equipment.

For fourteen months the two scientists in the African wilds were out of touch with civilization, and considerable anxiety was felt here concerning their safety. The family of Mr. Chapin lives on Staten Island.

"It gives me great pleasure," writes Mr. Chapin from Avakubi to Dr. Lucas, director of the museum, "to be able to inform you that the task of transporting to Stanleyville the collections deposited at Avakubi has been completed, and that fifty loads, as well as those from Medjo, have likewise been forwarded to Stanleyville, where all our caravans are reported to have arrived without the slightest mishap."

"To obtain the greatest security, each was accompanied by one of our native assistants. The recruiting of porters here presents considerable difficulty, as this post is on the main road between Stanleyville and the Uganda frontier, and the needs of the station itself are therefore great. The state officials, however, have always assisted us in the most cordial manner."

"Up to the present date 637 porters have been sent off, as well as nine large canoes, the contents of which would represent loads for 180 men, by way of the Aruwai river."

Among the rare specimens which the expedition is bringing out of Africa are several skins of the okapi, an animal which has the characteristics of the zebra and the deer and is exceedingly difficult to capture. The scientists also obtained a white rhinoceros. The collections include 2,400 mammals, 2,850 birds, 1,300

MUCH MISERY AVOIDED.

The Optimist—You shouldn't call down curses on the head of the man who threw that banana peel there. Look on the bright side.

The Victim—How can there be any bright side?

The Optimist—Why think of the stomach ache if the peel had been eaten instead of thrown away.

LEGAL NOTICE—PUBLIC NOTICE.

Notice is hereby given that a petition for a stone road in Springfield township was filed in the Auditor's office of Allen County, Indiana, on the 4th day of April, 1914, and the same will be presented to the Board of Commissioners of Allen County, Indiana, on the 22nd day of May, 1914, for a hearing.

Which petition is as follows:

State of Indiana, Allen County, ss: In the Commissioners' Court of Allen County, Indiana.

In re petition for stone road in Springfield township of Allen County, Indiana. We, the undersigned, freeholders and voters of Township Thirty-two (32), North Range Fourteen (14) East, otherwise known as Springfield Township of Allen County, Indiana, petition your Honorable Board of Commissioners of the County of Allen and State of Indiana, under the laws of the General Assembly, entitled "An Act Concerning Highways," and that part thereof known as "Gravel Roads by Taxation," approved March 8th, 1905, and by acts amendatory thereto in 1907, 1909, 1911 and 1913, with reference to the grading, draining and paving of the following described highway in Springfield Township of Allen County, Indiana, to-wit:

Commencing about the center of the West Union line of Section Thirteen (13), Township Thirty-two (32), North Range Fourteen (14) East, at what is known as Hall's Corners; running thence in a northerly direction through Section Thirteen (13), said Township and Range aforesaid, to the East Township line between Springfield and Scipio Townships.

Your petitioners further recommend that said road be a double track road, and that the roadbed be made to the width of twenty-eight (28) feet, and shall be paved on the North side thereof with a width of four feet (4) feet, with stone, as follows: Six (6) inches of two and one-half (2 1/2) inch stone such as will pass through a two and one-half inch sieve; four (4) inches of one and one-

EDUCATION WILL BE BIG FEATURE

Panama Exposition Chief
Has Returned After Long Tour

PLANNING EXHIBITS

San Francisco, April 13.—Alvin E. Pope, chief of the department of social economy and education of the Panama-Pacific International exposition, has returned to San Francisco after a four months' tour of the United States, with the assurance that the welfare and educational exhibits of the exposition will be the most remarkable ever assembled at a world's exposition. The exhibits as shown by Pope's list of striking displays will be commensurate with the world's advance in this field during the last few years.

Among the wholly new educational features will be a huge combination exhibit, to be installed in the five-acre Palace of Education. It will be a joint display by a moving picture corporation, a photograph company and a school book concern. This one exhibit involves an expenditure by the moving picture company of $1,500,000.

Model School Room.
The exhibit will include a spacious model school room and a moving picture hall, elaborately fitted up with the most modern appliances, especially for teaching the sciences, geography and industrial and vocational subjects. This will be surrounded by a roof garden, with model kindergarten schools, to be conducted with pupils from many nations, under the auspices of the National Kindergarten association. Folk songs and dances will be accompanied by music and phonographs. Special text books will be prepared by the book company to supplement this novel use of the moving pictures and phonographs.

The Palace of Education will contain six or eight model school rooms, to be devoted to class work in elementary education and in agricultural, horticultural, commercial and industrial pursuits, in art and in special subjects. Special instructions will be given in the teaching of the deaf, dumb, blind, delinquent and defective pupils, and in physical education for children and adults.

Illustrated by Pictures.
A feature of the exhibits will be the use of 200 stereomicrographs. These are automatic daylight stereoscopes, each showing more than fifty pictures up to ten feet square, acting synchronously with phonographs.

Another wholly new feature of these displays appears in the fact that each state, nation and city will show its one great specialty without duplication. New York, for example, will spend $35,000 to show the benefits of its system of state educational supervision, whereby the issue of all licenses and diplomas is regulated at Albany. A huge relief map, 26x30 feet in area, will show the effect of this central control over every school in the state.

Others Specialize.
Ohio will specialize in the work in agricultural and horticultural high schools. Massachusetts will devote $25,500 to showing the marvelous success of its great vocational and textile schools. Wisconsin's display, largely paid for by contributions of public school children, will be devoted to university extension work, while Oregon will specialize on rural schools, a feature of which is a credit system by which pupils acquire merit for labor performed at home.

Germany and France, among other nations, are expected to transfer their entire displays shown at the Lyons (France) urban exposition, which will close in May of this year.

While in the east, Pope secured the services of Wallace Hatch, of Providence, R. I., as superintendent of special exhibits on education.

NOTHING SO GOOD FOR A COUGH OR COLD.

When you have a cold you want the best medicine obtainable so as to get rid of it with the least possible delay. There are many who consider Chamberlain's Cough Remedy unsurpassed. Mrs. J. Beroff, Elida, Ohio, says: "Ever since my daughter Ruth was cured of a severe cold and cough by Chamberlain's Cough Remedy two years ago, I have felt kindly disposed toward the manufacturers of that preparation. I know of nothing so quick to relieve a cough or cure a cold." For sale by all dealers.—Adv.

SEEING AHEAD.

"So Jessie is going to marry a young oculist? Is he wealthy?"
"Not now, but there's some money in sight for him."

ONLY ONE "BROMO QUININE."
Whenever you feel a cold coming on, think of the full name, LAXATIVE BROMO QUININE. Look for signature of E. W. Grove, on Box. 25c. Adv.

STAGE REAL REEL IN "MOVIE" HOUSE

An Editor and Owner of House Have Fistic Combat

WHILE SHOW GOES ON

San Francisco, Cal., April 13.—Mrs. the two-reel film "Kelly Pool, a Green Monster; or, the Hero of the Chalk Mines," was thrown on the screen at the Criterion, the long line of prospective spectators in front were treated to a touch of drama from real life. Frank Eldridge, proprietor of the Criterion, and Francis Hoag, editor of the Suffolk County News, engaged in a fistic encounter and both came out heated—that is, both had the dark shades drawn over their left eye, which seems to be the most convenient place for landing a well-directed blow.

Eldridge, as the story goes, had some advertisements of the Criterion in the Suffolk County News, next to pure reading matter. He also had some "daggers" printed, with his name in heavy black auction type. Hoag, who has a printer, devil and his wife to settle with on Saturday nights, presented himself at the Criterion with a bill for $3.62. He found that Eldridge was in the city looking over the "first run" and otherwise mixing business with pleasure.

Three times did Hoag advance on the Criterion without results. He had a season pass to the theater and consequently spent much time there waiting for something to turn up. Eldridge finally turned up. Hoag heard about it and, pass in hand, marched to the Criterion. At the box office window he whispered something through the diamond cut hole to Eldridge. Then an argument of large proportions and great volume ensued. A long line of hungry amusement seekers, nickels in hand, were held up while the speculators of Sayville got in their deadly work.

$100 Reward, $100

The readers of this paper will be pleased to learn that there is at least one dreaded disease that science has been able to cure in all its stages, and that is Catarrh. Hall's Catarrh Cure is the only positive cure now known for the most stubborn and chronic cases. It cures Catarrh of the bladder, prostate, and urethra, and is sold by all druggists. It is a constitutional treatment, and it builds up the system, thereby destroying the foundation of the disease, and giving the patient strength by building up the constitution and assisting nature in doing its work. The proprietors have so much faith in its curative power that they offer One Hundred Dollars for any case that it fails to cure. Send for list of testimonials. Address F. J. CHENEY & CO., Toledo, O. Sold by all Druggists, 75c. Take Hall's Family Pills for constipation.

Eldridge became incensed. He closed his cash register and dropped the "Not Open" sign on the window. Then he went out to meet Hoag in the open. Hoag, it is reported, met his half way and "they went at it." Nobody interfered, as both men had friends in the group, and a lively fight was staged. It was good enough to be passed by the board of censors, every one said.

Sayville is all wrought up over the incident, as the two men are the first citizens of the community. Subscribers of the Suffolk County News are alarmed lest they miss the first night review of the films by the dramatic critic of the newspaper, who is none other than "ye editor."

SALADIN TEMPLE COMING.

Grand Rapids Shriners May Attend Mizpah's Ceremonial. Officials of Mizpah temple, Ancient Arabic Order of the Mystic Shrine, have been informed that a special train from Grand Rapids next Thursday night will carry nobles of Saladin temple to this city to attend the spring ceremonial session. In addition to the regular features of the ceremony, which follows the close of the spring Scottish Rite convention, a sumptuous lunch will be served and a special vaudeville program will complete the day's work. A large class of pilgrims will cross the sands and tarry at the oasis of Mizpah. This will be the first ceremonial session held in the shrine temple at 227 West Main street.

DIANA DILLPICKLES IN "DELUDING A BEAU" A 4-Reel "Screecher" Film

New York Heiress Weds "On the Quiet"

New York, April 13.—It wasn't exactly an elopement, but until an hour before the ceremony took place at St. Patrick's Cathedral last Saturday no one knew that Miss Olga Veronica Koller, beauty and heiress, intended to marry the much-engaged Nils Florman. The last time Nils Florman planned his wedding Miss Helena Stallo, the Cincinnati heiress, was to have been the bride. The engagement was suddenly broken. Florman will take his bride to his former home, Stockholm, Sweden, for a honeymoon.

UNCLE EPH, REMARKS:

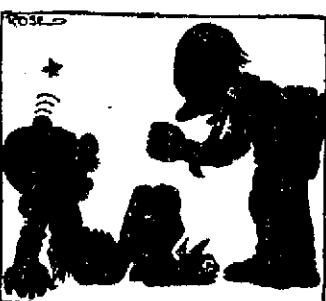

When Sam Tinkler's boy Toke used to ride a rockin' hobby horse, but now he's grown up he can't even stick onto the water wagon. A miss is good's a mile 'n' old maids."

THE LATEST STYLE.

"My wife made her own Easter hat this year."
"Clever woman. How'd she do it?"
"Took a paper pie plate, stuck a 10-cent chocolate russe on it, wore it, and saved $18."

EXCUSE ENOUGH.

"What did you knock me down for?"
"I wasn't talking to you!"
"Just that's it! I won't stand being ignored."

ASKS TEST FOR WAR ADVOCATES

Prominent Men Oppose Talk of Sending Army to Mexico.

REBUKE FOR JINGOES

New York, April 13.—Those persons who are urging this country to take up arms against Mexico should first decide whether they are prepared to enlist if war is declared, is the opinion expressed by citizens in various walks of life.

Those who stated their views when questioned agreed that public opinion is against war with Mexico and that it is better for those who do not want to fight to keep still. The question asked by the reporter was:

"Should a man urge war if he won't or can't go to war?"

The Rev. Dr. C. L. Goodell, pastor of St. Paul's Methodist Episcopal church, said he doubted if those who are shouting for war have stopped to count the cost.

"I do not wish to take the position of saying that those who do not or can not actively participate in any movement should not of right, or in wisdom, have an opinion to express. To say this is to go too far, for conditions and situations exist and arise where the advice of one not an active principal is of value. Now in the case of an opinion on the advisability of war with Mexico, I take it that aged and infirm men, as well as cripples, might permissibly express their views without being censured because they cannot be doing."

"No Necessity for War."
"But regarding those who are not deterred from taking part in a war because of physical preventives, that does really constitute another side of the matter. In the first place, of course, I do not think that the man who advocates war should certainly not do so until he has well considered all that war entails. He should recall what it will mean in the way of sacrifice. It is hardly becoming to forget this and not meet it with equal willingness of sacrifice when a man urges the taking up of arms."

James J. Fitzgerald, one-time assemblyman, said:

"Nobody should 'holler' for war unless he is ready to take up the stick. What are you to think if you hear a windy fellow yawn. 'Kill 'em all in Mexico. Eat 'em alive! We'll divvy up the whole country!' Why, you naturally think he's hunting a recruiting office. You're sure you've seen the last of him in the city and the next you'll hear from him he'll be drilling down along the Rio Grande. But will he? If he does then he had the right to talk."

"It's like the bad habit of all the time saying, 'I'll bet you this or I'll bet you that' in order to prove a contention. I've found out that when I say I'll bet I'm right they make me show my money. That's the thing in a nutshell. Make the war urge show they'll go to the front or shut up. That's betting talk and it's all right. Put up or shut up."

General George B. Loud, veteran of the civil war and well known in Grand Army circles, said he had no patience with these men who are crying for war, and when it comes to the pinch will not go.

"I don't care what their reason for not going is, they ought to always think before they shout," he said. "If they can't go it's more becoming to keep silent. I remember very well in the civil war we had a lot of the same kind. They were worked up to a white heat about the situation. You could hear them a block away. When it became necessary to go, quiet, determined boys just went down to the front and did the fighting."

"Should Obey, Not Talk."
Colonel R. F. Walton, one of the adjutants general of the national guard, said:

"My idea about war talk and fighting is to keep my mouth shut and go where I am ordered as a soldier to go. There are plenty. I know, who do a great deal of talking. Maybe a certain amount of it has to be done. But let them do it all. My plan has always been to keep still, never declaring the country should do this or do that, but just obey orders and go wherever the orders say."

HOW A MAN ACTS AND LIVES IN THE FACE OF THE HORRID GIBBET.

Atlanta, Ga., April 13.—"It's going to turn out all right. I'm not worrying, you know."

Leo M. Frank in his death cell in the Fulton-co tower, smiled as he looked straight into the eyes of his interviewer. "Have you ever read that poem, 'This, Too Shall Pass Away'?"

He quoted:

"And wait; your waiting will not be in vain;
Time glides with gold the iron links of pain."

"The dark today leads into light tomorrow;
There is no endless joy; no endless sorrow."

"I know that the light of truth is bound to permeate," he went on.

"Truest wisdom is a happy mind. . . .
"He who despends his Maker's judgment mocks:
"Whatever comes, this, too, shall pass away."

That is the philosophy in which Leo M. Frank, sentenced to be hanged by the neck until dead, April 17, is living today and has through the eleven months in which has been in prison.

I went to his cell just as his wife came for her daily visit. At first Frank appeared not to wish to talk again.

"I can't say anything more. I've gone over it all time and time again," he said. "What more can I say?"

"Thirty or forty visitors come here a day—curiosity seekers—mere curiosity seekers."

"Leo," his wife interrupted quickly. "Don't feel that way, dear. I know they come out of interest."

Frank laughed. "Well, I'll talk," he said.

"Do you know," he said, "all this came like a bolt from a blue sky? I still know it will come out right, but—"

"Imagine a man walking in the green fields, under a blue sky. Suddenly a rainstorm comes up—the very elements suddenly are turned upside down."

"It was just like that—this thing. It was furthest from my thoughts. If a man had been riotous he might expect something like this. But there was no cause for me to. My first feeling was that of amazement. Then, as the drama unfolded, I became intent to it."

As he talked the tread of restless feet in the cell over head and endless tramp to and fro came down to him. Occasionally he had raised his voice to drown the raucous chatter of the jail that floated into his cell.

"I thought each day before the trial that the next would mean my release," he went on. "Now I feel like a mere spectator watching a play in which others seem to be the principal figures. All during the trial I expected a triumphant acquittal, but—I was convicted without evidence."

Frank keeps with him constantly a picture of his wife—ever devoted to him.

He reads the newspapers daily, and magazines and books when he can find time between visitors.

On the table of his cell is a law book in which he studies the legal aspects of his case. By its side lies one of George Eliot's works and a book on philosophy by Rabbi Gershom of New York.

He has kept his health so well, he says, because he does not worry, eats nutritious food and exercises.

"I've not missed a night's sleep," he said. "Since my arrest. Why should I? I'm innocent and know it's coming out all right."

Are You Going to Brighten Up the Home This Spring?

We Would Like to Talk Over New Home Furnishings with You.

In a great many homes one of the subjects that will come up during house-cleaning this spring will be new furnishings. Carpets, Rugs and Curtains have a way of wearing out the same as everything else. Furnishing a home is not an every day occurrence. It is something worthy of careful consideration. Our years of experience can be of help to you.

New Spring Carpets

The new Spring carpets are surprisingly attractive in their rich colorings and designs. No matter what grade of carpet you look at, be it Wilton, Axminster, Velvet, Brussels or Tapestry, you will find that the designers and artistic weavers have eclipsed all previous efforts. In carpets of quality we can quote you most advantageous prices.

Oriental Rugs

Loom pictures from the far East. Rugs made by hand on crude looms from reeds of vegetable dyed yarns by wandering tribes and in small tented homes that cannot be duplicated by modern machinery. An Oriental rug is an article of value because of its beauty and durability. Age and hard service add to its attractiveness. We have picked up some fine specimens of Oriental rugs in various sizes which we offer at very low prices.

The Ford Vacuum Cleaner

A suction cleaner and carpet sweeper combined. The most efficient and practical combination cleaner yet devised. Ball bearing, easy running, adjustable brush. Beautiful mahogany finish and guaranteed to give satisfaction. The price is $6.75.

The Fly Brigade

Will be out in full force soon. Don't wait and try to "swat 'em" and put them out. Keep them out with the new Roll-away fly screens. These screens are made of metal, will last as long as the building and when not needed roll away out of sight.

Pictures

There is nothing that adds so much to the attractiveness of the home as pretty pictures hung here and there upon the wall. We have a tasteful showing of pictures in choice frames suitable for any room in the house. Copies of famous works of art in etchings, colorographs, water colors and plain and colored artographs and photographs. A wide range of subjects priced from 25c to $5.00.

WHITTALL RUGS

America's Finest Floor Fabric

Woven with such skill that they are the very newest, approach to the famed Far East product. They resemble these old antiques in both pattern and color blending, and will wear a lifetime, growing prettier with each day's use. When these facts are taken into consideration, is it any wonder that and are being used by persons, firms and corporations, who exact the very best of everything?

WHITTALL'S ANGLO-PERSIAN RUGS—In soft blended color combinations, many patterns in exact reproductions of rare antiques, all worsted surface, heavy linen backs and linen fringe finish; a rug with patterns suitable for parlor, living room or library. 9x12 ft. size—priced at $60.00.

WHITTALL'S ANGLO-INDIAN RUGS—Made from the same yarns as Anglo-Persians, patterns are in arts and crafts designs, many of these in two-tone and Indian patterns; a rug well adapted for carrying out Period furnishing ideas, on account of the broadness of the pattern and color assortment—9x12 ft. size $50.00.

WHITTALL'S ROYAL WORCESTER WILTON RUG—A medium priced rug, of exceptional wearing quality and carrying out the rare designing found in all other Whittall carpets; a choice collection of small, all-over patterns, as well as some very pretty medallions; a rug we recommend for wear and beauty, at a very modest price—9x12 ft. size $45.00.

WHITTALL'S TEPAC WILTON RUG—Noted for its fine wearing quality and excellent pattern line, which comprises designs for every room in the home; an all wool rug that has gained an enviable reputation for wear and beauty; the 9x12 ft. size $40.00.

Curtains and Draperies

Every woman of taste knows how much depends upon the skillful and harmonious draping of the windows and doorways and many of them know as well the value of keeping in touch with our drapery store, where always the newest ideas are shown and where practical suggestions may be had for the asking. The brightest, freshest and newest textile decorations in curtains and curtain materials by the yard are here in almost unlimited variety at exceedingly attractive prices.

Linoleums

For the kitchen, bath room, pantry and other places where a sanitary and serviceable floor covering is needed there is nothing so satisfactory as linoleum. We show all the different grades in choice designs, both in printed and tiled. The prices range from 55c to $1.65 a yard.

The Eureka Electric Vacuum Cleaner

A perfect moderate priced electric cleaner that insures cleanliness in your home with little effort. A time saver and a work saver. It operates easily and effectively. Does not stir up any dust. This splendid cleaner is sold with a guarantee of satisfactory service and the price is only $35.00.

"Shine Up"

We won't speak of housecleaning for that may bring up unpleasant thoughts, but of house fixing up. Here are suggestions that will shine up your home with little labor:—

LIQUID VENEER—One quart of polish, and one dust cloth, $1.75 worth for $1.19.

WIZARD POLISH—One thread mop, one quart of polish, $2.50 worth for $1.50.

OLD ENGLISH FLOOR WAX—The best of all, sold in pound cans 50c.

ACANA LINOLEUM FINISH—Will preserve your linoleum and make it wear twice as long. Try it.

GIRL TELLS A SHOCKING TALE

In Big American City Says
She Was Sold Into Marriage for $100.

FATHER IS ACCUSED

Los Angeles, Cal., Having freed herself from the bondage of slavery and renouncing her country and its customs forever, Sarah Katoff, 19-year-old slave wife of Jacob Ulan, has revealed the reasons that caused her to defy her father, mother and all her friends in a fight for liberty. Four years she had been the slave wife of Ulan, to whom her father sold her for $100. In court, she refused to marry him by American laws.

She declared she would be free from him and all bondage and, become an American, she would work for her two babies and educate them and herself.

She was told that her babies would have no name if she did not marry their father.

"A bad father, a bad name," she responded vehemently. "My own name shall be good for my little ones. They are to be Americans and they shall not bear the curse of that name which means torture to me for four long years."

This is the story she told as her golden-haired baby of three climbed over her knees and played with the little doll "like an American baby."

When Sarah Katoff was 10 years old she was put out to do hard work in Russia. "She was paid $1 a month, but her older brother took that. When she was 15 they brought to America."

She wanted to go to school after she arrived at Los Angeles, but she was told she would have to work. Her father made her work in a laundry at night and stay at home inside the house all day long, so that the truant officers would not find her and compel her to go to school. She dared not disobey.

Two months after she had arrived, as she was going to work one evening, a strange man accosted her on the street. He told her he would like to marry her.

She told him to go away, that she did not know him, and did not wish to talk to him.

The next morning, she was told that her father had consented to marrying her to the man, for the man would pay him $100. The father had wanted $200, but had compromised for half the price.

The girl protested until she was beaten. And a week later was given in Russian marriage to the man she had seen but once. The occasion was celebrated with a week's holiday. At the end of the week the husband decided to take a second week's holiday, and he lost his job. Then the wife was put to work and her money taken by the husband or his mother.

The husband drank heavily and he beat the girl often and hard.

Then Sarah Katoff ran away and appealed to her father. He beat her and told her no daughter of his should leave her husband. And he took her back.

When they reached her husband's home she was made to lie prostrate on the floor, first at the feet of her husband, then his father and mother and his 17-year-old brother, and beseech their forgiveness. On her knees she was compelled to promise never to protest against any of them.

Then she heard that American girls ran away from husbands who beat them—and didn't come back. But when she told her mother-in-law of this she was warned that Russian girls who did that were caught and beaten until they died.

She ran away anyhow and her experiences coming to the attention of the authorities secured her freedom.

STOMACH TROUBLE CURED.

Mrs. H. G. Cleveland, Arnold, Pa., writes, "For some time I suffered from stomach trouble. I would have sour stomach and feel bloated after eating. Nothing benefited me until I got Chamberlain's Tablets. After taking two bottles of them I was cured." For sale by all dealers.—Adv.

CIGARETTES PUT UNDER BAN.
Oregon Town Council Makes It a Crime for Boys to Use Tobacco.

Lebanon, Ore., April 13.—The Lebanon city council has passed an ordinance making it a misdemeanor for any minor to smoke a cigarette, or use tobacco in any form in Lebanon. The punishment for the first offense is a reprimand from the municipal judge, and the second is a fine of from $2 to $10. The city health officer has volunteered to treat any habitual cigarette user with the silver nitrate remedy.

RHEUMATIC PAINS RELIEVED.

Why suffer from rheumatism when relief may be had at so small a cost? Mrs. Elmer Hatch, Peru, Ind., writes, "I have been subject to attacks of rheumatism for years. Chamberlain's Liniment always relieves me immediately, and I take pleasure in recommending it to others." 25 and 50 cent bottles. For sale by all dealers.—Adv.

WASHINGTON PICTURE SOLD.

Full Length Painting by Peale Brings $4,000 at Auction.

New York, April 13.—Charles Wilson Peale's full length painting of Washington, which Washington liked so well that he presented it to Louis XVI in appreciation of French help to the American colonies, was sold at auction last night for $4,000. The portrait was made after the battle of Princeton and represents Washington in dress uniform with the blue ribbon voted him by the continental congress, pinned to his coat. Louis XVI gave the picture to Lafayette, who kept it all his life.

John Trumbull's famous painting of the battle of Bunker Hill with the death of General Warren, the artist having made the sketch from an adjoining hill while the battle was in progress, brought $750. The sale was from the collection of Dr. George Reuling, of Baltimore.

A CURE FOR SOUR STOMACH.

Mrs. Wm. M. Thompson, of Battle Creek, Mich., writes: "I have been troubled with indigestion, sour stomach and bad breath. After taking two bottles of Chamberlain's Tablets I am well. These tablets are splendid—none better." For sale by all dealers.—Adv.

NEW DECALOGUE GIVEN PARENTS

Probation Officer at Los Angeles Evolves Ten Commandments.

PLACING THE BLAME

Los Angeles, Apr. 13.—A new decalogue for Los Angeles parents has been given by Miss Orfa Shontz, probation officer of the juvenile court of this city.

It has long been Miss Shontz's theory that parents are almost wholly to blame for every case of delinquency.

The three parental diseases she sets forth as:

1. Indifference.
2. Overindulgence.
3. Overseverity.

The new decalogue for parents is:

1. Make the children wash the dishes,

MISS ORFA SHONTZ.

clean windows, sweep, scrub, make beds and do ordinary housework. Hard work will make them strong.

2. Open up your homes to young men or boy friends of your daughters, and to the girl friends of your sons.

3. Coax your children's confidences. The girl who confides in her parents is scarcely liable to go wrong. Neither is the boy. No girl goes wrong unless some boy goes with her.

4. Take an interest in your children. Don't be the indifferent parent who doesn't know what the children are doing.

5. Don't be a greedy parent. The child who goes to work on a falsified age certificate very frequently turns out to be a thief. It starts its business life on a very foundation of dishonesty.

6. Don't let your girls go unescorted to parks, to skating rinks or to theaters.

7. Keep your girls pleasantly employed at home. Lack of useful occupation often drives a girl to harmful pastimes.

8. Don't let your home be, as so many modern homes, mere places for the children to roam, get their meals and turn in orders for new dresses, new suits and luxuries.

9. Help us to get more policewomen. Aid in teaching the men who trap young girls to be afraid of the star on a woman's breast.

10. Help spread the English language among foreigners, and so protect the foreign girls in our midst. Urge the formation of legal employment bureaus, so that girls can be placed in good places with decent wages and their environment inspected.

Commandment No. 3 Miss Shontz emphasized particularly.

CROWN SKYSCRAPER SKELETONS WITH "OLD GLORY" TO PREVENT DEATH.

There is a superstition amongst structural steel workers that when the highest pinnacle of a building is reached that unless the American flag is raised there that day, that one or more men will be killed on the job before the building is completed. For a contractor to refuse to crown the spider-like steel structure of the framework of his building with Old Glory is a serious breach of the etiquette of steel-workers, and is liable to cause a "walkout on his job."

The picture above shows the ceremony of "crowning a Building with Old Glory." Little Ruth Bergstrom sealed to the top of the dome of the Transportation building of the Panama World's Fair in San Francisco upon its completion and planted the American flag while the workmen cheered. In the background can be seen some of the other semi-completed buildings of the fair.

TOWN BUILDER A FAILURE IN CITY

Marco of Montana Could Fight Indians But Not Finance

OR LIVE SETTLERS

St. Paul, Minn., April 13.—George J. Marco, pioneer citizen of Montana and Indian fighter, has gone home. It took him four days to become convinced that he was fighting a losing battle in Minneapolis and St. Paul, and he has returned to Marco, Mont., the town he founded and is fostering.

After a quarter of a century of winning battles on the frontier, George Marco came to the Twin Cities to interest people here to settle in Marco. But the most prominent citizen of Marco was reduced after a few days here to an outcast. His last dollar vanished at Moorhead, Minn., a few days ago, when he accommodated friends by changing a $20 bill. His railroad fare back to the frontier was paid by employees of the St. Paul postoffice. Mr. Marco is postmaster of Marco.

"I'm going back to the woods and stay there," he said at the Union depot. "I fought a struggle for existence all my life on the plains and won. But this city life is not my life and I can not 'luck the game' as it is played here. I've tramped this town over, dropping into stores and telling people about Marco. They all listened attentively, but none was ready to buy Marco lots. Handicapped by the loss of a leg and an arm, the putting of Marco on the map has been a difficult task. I located the first homestead on the townsite and I'm the man who brought thirty-five residents to our town.

"I was almost penniless when I arrived here. Since then I've stayed at the cheaper lodging houses. I always demanded a bed near the window to get as much fresh air as possible. The boys at the postoffice helped me when they learned I was postmaster at Marco. I've had hard luck here and am glad to go home."

Marco went west from Milwaukee twenty-five years ago. He roamed the plains and "punched" cattle for many years. Learning that the lower Yellowstone river was to be dredged for irrigation purposes, he went to work on the canal and established a homestead twenty-one miles north of Glendive, on the Northern Pacific railroad. That was eight years ago. Since then he has got a post-office for the town and established a store and dance hall. He gave a Wayzata (Mich.) man a half interest in the town site on condition that the Wayzata man sent settlers. Unable to uphold his contract the Wayzata man allowed his interest to lag. But the indefatigable Marco came to Minneapolis and arranged for him to relinquish his interests in Marco, Mont. The town is now in the hands of Mr. Marco and he expects to sell his lots and have $10,000 as a reward for his work.

AN UNIQUE INSTRUMENT.

Army Engineers Are to Operate a "Plane Table" Here.

A plane table and alidade, to be used in making topographical drawings was received this morning at the office of the army engineers and surveyors, who are collecting data for a detailed survey of the proposed lake-to-lake canal. According to United States Junior Engineer P. M. Churdill, this will be the first time such an instrument has been placed in service in this part of the country. The table and attached instruments are so arranged that detailed and accurate drawings can be easily executed in the open country on the actual scene of surveys being made.

FARMERS WILL MEET.

Federation is to Enter Into Discussion of Good Roads.

Members of the Allen County Federation of Farmers will meet next Saturday afternoon at the assembly room of the court house for the purpose of discussing the subject of "Good Roads." A call for the meeting has just been sent out by Francis E. Moore, president of the federation. Owing to the urgent farm work at this season of the year, only a comparatively few members of the federation were able to attend the good roads meeting held this afternoon under the direction of a government road building expert.

MRS. DR. DODSON DIES.

Well Known Woman Was Cousin of Mrs. A. L. Randall.

Mrs. A. L. Randall received a telegram this morning announcing the death of her cousin, Mrs. Dr. J. M. Dodson, who passed away this morning at an early hour at her home in Chicago. Dr. Dodson is dean of the University of Chicago and the family have a cottage at Rome City, Ind. Mr. Dodson had many friends in Fort Wayne who will be sorrowfully surprised to hear of her sudden demise. Mrs. Randall left today for Chicago to attend the funeral.

How the Hoosier Cabinet Saved Miles of Steps

THIS kitchen before being remodeled caused miles of steps every day. It is 16 feet long and 12 feet wide. The table was taken out, the pantry changed slightly and a Hoosier Cabinet added. Now the Hoosier is the center of everything with a splendid view of the old pantry is the refrigerator room with outside icing.

To prepare a meal this housekeeper takes food from the ice-chest to the cabinet, where she works without a step; then to the stove and dining room. Returning, soiled dishes go to the sink then to their shelves. She has her work done in hours less time than before she had her Hoosier.

Master Your Kitchen

You scarcely can afford to be the slave of your flour barrel-to spend needless hours in walking from one part of your kitchen to another whenever you need an article

The Hoosier Kitchen Cabinet puts a compact system in your kitchen—makes it scientific. It brings your work to your fingers' ends and saves an hour or two each day.

You cannot get the patented Hoosier Special labor saving features anywhere else at any price. Without these conveniences for saving time and work, a cabinet would be a mere collection of bins and drawers—not a labor-saving machine.

The 400,000 women who use the Hoosier, value it for the countless steps it saves.

Hoosier Special Features, That Save Time and Labor

FLOUR BIN

This flour bin, holding 65 pounds, is a marvel of sanitary perfection. Flour is put in at the top, passes through the entire bin, and is taken out at the bottom, thoroughly sifted—no mouldy flour can accumulate. The top lid is closed tight, except when flour is put in, so dust and dirt are excluded—the flour must stay clean.

The air-tight metal framed panel of clear glass makes the contents perfectly visible, and the sliding grooved enables you to remove and replace the glass panel without the slightest effort.

The improved sifter is detachable, replaceable, easily repaired and durable—made of rust-proof metal, like that in the bin. Flour touches no other material. The sanitary arrangement is perfect.

SUGAR BIN

The sugar bin is our most cleverly devised bin and is superior to all others. The sugar is put in at the top and works down into the open space at the bottom, where it is taken out by means of a scoop furnished with the cabinet. The bulk of the sugar stays in the upper part of the bin, as the opening is only large enough to allow about a pint of sugar at a time into the lower part. When one scoopful is taken out, another drops down.

TEA AND COFFEE CANISTERS

These canisters occupy shelves next to the sugar bin. They are made of crystal glass with satin-finished aluminum screw lids, and are air-tight. They are washable, keep the contents in perfect condition, and show the quantity on hand.

SPICE CABINET

The cabinet consists of six Colonial patterned crystal-glass jars with aluminum satin-finished tops. A neat rack holds them in place on the left hand door, where they are in a handy position, always easy to reach.

The jars provide for baking powder, allspice, cream of tartar, ginger, cinnamon and cloves. The jars are transparent, so as to show the state of contents, and they can be washed without danger of rust. Being airtight, they preserve the strength and flavor of the spices.

BREAD AND CAKE BOX.

The utility of the popular all-metal bread and cake box has been doubled by a special removable metal tray for cakes, and the unique concealed cover. Every corner of the receptacle is within reach of your fingers.

The Hoosier bread box takes the place of a lower drawer. It is 9x11x24 inches.

There is a strong sliding support under this box, which keeps the drawer rigid and in a horizontal position when extended the full length. This bread and cake box adds a great deal to the cabinet. It is always out of the way, but easy to reach, and in a year will save its price in the waste it saves.

ALUMINUM EXTENSION TABLE
The Hoosier aluminum extension table can be drawn out beyond the front of the cabinet 18 inches. This adds more than one-third to the table space and provides plenty of knee or foot room so the housekeeper can sit down as she would at the sewing machine, and work comfortably.

The table top is not only roomier than the ordinary kitchen table—it is vastly more convenient, because surrounded by needed utensils.

The table space is covered with genuine aluminum. It is easy to keep clean, and is always bright and shiny. It does not tarnish or corrode. It can be rubbed bright as a mirror in a few seconds with a damp cloth.

THE CHINA CLOSET

or cupboard in the upper section is artistic in appearance, and provides a convenient, roomy place for kitchen dishes, package goods, etc.

PAN RACKS

on the base cupboard door are convenient places for pie pans, shallow cake pans and plates used in the kitchen.

THE SLIDING SHELF

in the base cupboard slides out like a drawer, bringing the contents of the cupboard easily to the front.

THE "CLOCK-FACED" WANT LIST
on the door bin door is a great aid to the memory in keeping "stock" in your kitchen.

NICKEL DOOR CATCHES

are adjustable. They are Hoosier patents which insure perfect service to Hoosier users.

METAL PARTS

on Hoosier Cabinets are rust-proof, with satin copper finish.

THE CONSTRUCTION THROUGHOUT

is high-grade; three-ply panels of oak and solid oak frames being used exclusively. The workmanship is high-class.

DIMENSIONS

Entire height, 68 inches; width, 40 inches; depth lower section, 28 inches; table space, 40x30 inches; will fit in a space smaller than that of a kitchen table.

OTHER CONVENIENCES

A large number of conveniences in the Hoosier Kitchen Cabinet are not mentioned here.

To fully appreciate how much work the Hoosier Cabinet will save, you should examine the cabinet itself.

DEAF MUTE WINS OVER HANDICAP

John Archie Benolken is Not a Bit Sorry for Himself.

HE ASKS NO FAVORS

Minneapolis, Minn., April 13.—John Benolken isn't a bit sorry for himself. He asks no odds from anyone. "Give me a chance and watch me make good," is his challenge to the world—and the world has taken him at his word.

Yet this young man, only 24, is entering the race for success with as heavy a handicap as man ever carried. He's both deaf and mute. He never heard a sound, never uttered one.

Benolken might have sat back and let his family or the state take care of him. But he isn't that kind of a chap. Deprived of two of his five senses, he began almost in babyhood to make the most of his faculties with which providence endowed him.

When he was 10 years old Benolken was sent to the Minnesota State School for the Deaf at Fairbault, Minn. He graduated four years ago. He had his mother to support and his way to make in the world, so he began to work as a billing clerk for a wholesale grocery firm in Minneapolis.

John A. Benolken

He made good from the beginning, but on in 1902.

he wanted to do better. He attended night school and studied stenography. He felt sure that with the lip method of reading spoken language he could take dictation. He made good again. He's now a full-fledged stenographer and he takes dictation readily.

It is said that Benolken is the only deaf mute stenographer in the world. Good looking, well groomed, well mannered, Benolken's double affliction has not barred him from society any more than it has from the business world. He never heard a note of "rag-time" yet the tango claims him as its victim. He attends the theater. He belongs to social clubs and, except for the unbroken silence that enshrouds him, he lives the life of a normal young business man.

SOME OCCUPATIONS FOR MUTES.
• Stenography.
• Billing.
• Copying.
• Bookkeeping.

These occupations are recommended to deaf mutes by Benolken as positions in which their physical infirmities are not serious handicaps.

Among the fine old colonial homes in Bath, Me., is that of Mrs. George Shepard. The house was built in 1800. The paper which adorns the parlor was put up in 1802.

According to several local business men, Dr. S. B. Moline, supreme organizer for the Benevolent Protective Order of Lions, is to reach Fort Wayne this evening from Chicago, and contemplates organizing a local chapter of the fraternity.

FIND TYPHUS ABOARD SHIP.

Steering Passengers on the Celtic Detained at Hoffman Island.

New York, April 13.—All the steerage passengers on the White Star steamship Celtic, from Alexander and Naples, were transferred to Hoffman island when the vessel arrived today, because four cases of typhus fever had been found among them. They will be held for further observation. The Celtic was detained at quarantine.

Mr. & Mrs. J. Napoleon Bonaparte

In a musty, dingy basement room in the New York city hall with Alderman "Happy Jack" Riordan officiating, Jerome Napoleon Bonaparte, great grand-nephew of Napoleon I, emperor of the French, was married to Mrs. Blanche Pierce Stiebeligh. The bride is a recent divorcee. Bonaparte is the son of Jerome Napoleon Bonaparte and Caroline Appleton. He lives in Washington. On the marriage license he wrote, "No occupation."

DRAMATIST'S JOB NOT AN EASY ONE

George Broadhurst is Not Highly Enthusiastic
About It.

TO MAKE A LIVING

Kansas City, April 13.—All this talk about a man's being able to buy motor cars, country homes and numerous and various trips abroad as soon as he persuades some manager to buy a play from him should be taken with a grain of salt. There is really nothing in it. At least George Broadhurst, writer of plays with a "punch" and thrills, says so. Indeed, he goes so far as to point out that this business of trying to catch the public's favor is the "most precarious method imaginable of making a living."

And this comes from the man who only a week or so ago told a judge in New York that he had made some $200,000 in the last two years from his plays, and added that for twenty years he has been able to wheedle on an average of $18,000 a year from the public.

Was a Clerk in Chicago.

It was Mrs. Broadhurst's demand for heavy alimony which brought forth the dramatist's statements, together with an analysis of the drama and the history of one of its constructors. Some of its attendant losses were also revealed. And these statements constitute what might be called the confessions of a playwright.

Twenty years ago a clerk on the Chicago board of trade decided that he was tired of being a sort of drudge. He wrote a play of conditions as he saw them on the Chicago change and called it "The Speculator." The play was a hit and so George Broadhurst launched himself in his precarious livelihood.

And he has remained at it all these twenty years and has managed to make a living, but his pathway has not always been minus rocks and pitfalls. He says that luck is a responsible element in his biggest success, for without a little luck an ambitious playwright might as well burn up his trunk of manuscripts (they always keep them in trunks, it seems—just why has always been an insoluble mystery) and go out and try to find a nice tame truck to drive.

Each Play Depends on Its Merits.

Twenty years, he is careful to point out, is the period in which a playwright may depend on his work. After that he is a candidate for the boneyard, and while Mr. Broadhurst hates to admit it, he doesn't mind telling his honor that he fears his own days of production are almost over.

"Each play must depend on its own merits," the statement says. "If it appeals to the public it will succeed. Otherwise it will fail. Generally they fail to please. In this regard playwrighting is unlike the learned professions. Let a lawyer or physician demonstrate his abilities and he is forthwith assured of a comfortable income. But the most learned professions are exact sciences. There are authorities to consult and set principles to follow. Then energy and industry will make for success."

"There are no rules in playwrighting. You may write a successful play and earn $20,000 a year for three or four years, but never have another success. In other lines when one earns an income of $20,000 a year he is reasonably sure of its continuance. More than occasionally the writing of a highly successful play is a stroke of good fortune, the same as a miner's lucky strike in the gold fields. There is no way of gauging the value of a play in manuscript form."

Public the Final Judge.

"The most experienced manager may be wildly enthusiastic over a play, only to discover after he has invested his money, the public does not care for it. One of the characteristics essential to playwrighting is imagination, and that is sometimes an attribute of youth alone. I am in my forty-eighth year, and while I do not say my days of achievement are over—I prefer to think to the contrary, anyway, I fear it is so."

"From my first play I made a living. From my next two I made an income of $10,000 in two years. In 1896 I wrote two successful plays and lost what I made by producing two that were not successful. I lost money in the firm of Broadhurst & Currier; in 'The Duke of Duhuth' I lost $10,000; 'The Dollar Mark' cost me $30,000; 'The Girl and the Drummer,' $34,000. At the time I wrote 'The Man of the Hour' I hadn't saved anything. I had to take an interest in 'Bought and Paid For,' which has now played ever nook and cranny of the country, on credit."

"Exploiting 'Just Like John' cost me $12,000, and 'Don't Weaken' $7,000. I can't hope for as bright a future as the past has been. History shows that twenty years is about the limit of a playwright's success. Henry Arthur Jones and Sir Arthur Wing Pinero have not had a success to their credit for some years. Why should I hope for more?"

UNCLE EPH. REMARKS:

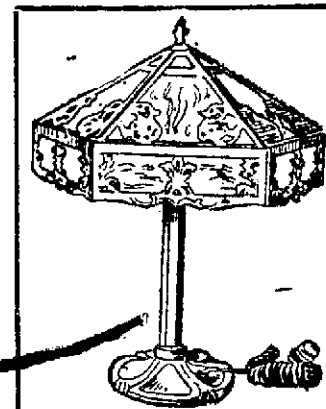

I KIN REMEMBER

When folks want to remember each other let alone "lost-and-found" and the other stack-up names for places, I'll please ready-made dyes. Tall build's heart a feller's neck."

BANDIT MAY BE SURRENDERED

Man Who Tried to Stick Up Durnell Roadhouse Marine Corps Fugitive.

SAYS HE WAS HUNGRY

Sheriff Gladoux has communicated with the naval authorities to find out if they want possession of John Lane, the man who tried to hold up the John Durnell roadhouse, at the junction of the Huntington and Illinois roads at 9:30 Saturday night, when he marched in on the place and commanded Durnell and two customers to "grow up their hands and give him their money." The intervention of another customer wrecked Lane's plans and he was overpowered and turned over to the sheriff.

Lane says he is a deserter from the marine corps and if the authorities of the navy want him he will be surrendered. Otherwise he will be prosecuted here for attempting robbery.

With the command, "Hold up your hands and get your money on the table and do it quick," Lane introduced himself to Durnell, the proprietor, and John Mouser and William Ricketts, who were seated at a table playing cards. All three occupants of the roadhouse thought at first the affair was a joke until Lane ordered Durnell to open the cash register. This Durnell declared he could not do as the bartender was out.

Lane sought to instruct Durnell how to operate the register and Durnell left his seat at the table to get to the bar, where he had a weapon. Just at that juncture William Hathaway came in. Lane pointed his gun at the newcomer, who got road scared and just simply leaped on Lane and overpowered him. The bandit's gun was taken from him and the telephone was used to summon Sheriff Gladoux, who, with Deputy Mills, went out in the sheriff's auto and made the arrest.

Lane gave his name and said he was a deserter from the United States marine corps. He said he had left his company at Fort Royal, S. C., the 1st inst. The gun he carried was a service weapon of 45 caliber.

Lane said his only reason for turning bandit and trying to stick up the roadhouse was because he was broke and hungry.

MAY CLEAR OLD MURDER MYSTERY

Slayer of Tango Teacher Now Thought Guilty of Another Crime.

CASE OF "MR. DOVE"

Joliet, Ill., April 18.—The unsolved mystery of the murder in Chicago ten years ago of John W. Bates, a taxicab driver, was cleared up here today, it was asserted, when information was offered that the slayer was Henry Spencer, who is awaiting the execution of sentence for the murder of Mildred Rexton, a dancing teacher, at Wheaton, Ill., last fall. Bates was killed the night of Nov. 18, 1904, to take a "Mr. Dove," a guest at a Chicago hotel, on a long drive. The next day Bates was found in his automobile murdered. "Dove" disappeared.

A man supposed to have been "Dove" arrived in Joliet the morning after the murder, stayed two days at the boarding house of a Mrs. Haussner and left a few minutes before the arrival of Chicago detectives.

Mrs. Haussner, her son-in-law, John Smith, and another man, today identified portraits of Spencer as likenesses of "Dove." Chief of Police Murphy will take them to Wheaton today or tomorrow to see Spencer in his cell.

INSPECT THEATER PLANS.

City Officials Have Conference With Stouder and Barnett. Frank E. Stouder and Byron Barnett, with George L. Kemp, of Chicago, Mayor Hoesy and members of the board of public works went into detailed conference this afternoon preparatory to the beginning of work for the new theater to be erected this summer at Washington boulevard and Clinton streets.

Building Inspector Philip Wyse said he desired to start the work at the earliest possible date.

The Northern Indiana Life Underwriters' association met this noon at the Commercial club for the regular monthly business and social session. Advertising and business conditions were discussed. Ralph Smith, advertising manager for the Wayne Knitting mill, and C. J. Suedhoff, of the Journal-Gazette, were guests at the dinner.

CITY BREVITIES

Joseph Shadel, of this city, has gone to Lexington, Ky., to superintend the decoration of the interior of the Gem theater. Mr. Shadel's artistic work in theaters at Plymouth and Decatur attracted considerable favorable comment.

THE WORST ROAD IN FORT WAYNE

Eldridge Advocates State Highway Commission Appointment.

GOOD ROADS EXPERT

M. O. Eldridge, government good roads expert, arrived in Fort Wayne this morning on the first stop of a tour throughout the Twelfth district, and after returning from a short trip through the city and in the outskirts of the city he declared that the worst roads he had been over on his present trip west existed right here in Fort Wayne. He referred to St. Joe boulevard.

Mr. Eldridge addressed a meeting at 1:30 o'clock this afternoon in the assembly room of the court house and will give another good roads lecture tonight, showing more than 100 stereoscopic views of the evolution of road building.

During his talk this afternoon he discussed and advised the appointment of a state highway commission. He said that all but ten states in the union have official state highway departments and that Indiana is right in the center of a group of states that find this department one of the most important and most useful state bodies. In maintaining the commission he suggested that the state pay part of the expense and the counties the balance.

Mr. Eldridge also advised that all road taxes be paid in cash. He said if the farmers are allowed to work out their taxes, they usually choose their own time for working and usually select a time that the roads should not be worked. Mr. Eldridge would have the state or county or township hire competent men to do efficient work. He declared that Indiana has wasted money in letting farmers and others work out their road taxes than any other state in the union. He said they are not equipped in road building and do not attempt to improve the road at the right time.

The principal portion of the lecture dealt with the best methods of building and maintaining improved roads. In taking up this subject pictures were shown on the screen showing the actual work of building good roads. He also showed the way not to improve roads and a number of foreign views were included in the program.

PRESENT SYSTEM IS OUT OF DATE

Street-Cleaning Costly and Inefficient Declares Mayor Hoesy.

THE MUNICIPAL NEWS

Pointing to the fact that after working five hours with two flushers and a gang of men the street-cleaning department was able to distribute but five thousand gallons of water from midnight to 5 o'clock Sunday morning, Mayor Hoesy declared today that something cheaper and more efficient must be found by the city. The flusher carts were able to fill and discharge seven loads each in the five hours. At 350 gallons per load, a trifle less than five thousand gallons were distributed on down town streets that were cleaned up for the Easter occasion. Mayor Hoesy some time ago called attention to the inefficiency of the compression flushers, which are filled against a heavy air pressure, involving a process that is slow and compelling operation with but half-filled tanks.

Mayor Hoesy believes that the city can gain much in efficiency and save a deal of money by purchasing a strong motor truck to pull several of the flushers coupled together and connected with hose links so that all will discharge through the one nozzle. His favorite plan, however, is a big motor tank of great capacity with a front discharge of water forced by pumps connected with the driving motor. Either plan would enable one man to do several times as much work as is now performed by several.

"Instead of distributing one hundred thousand gallons of water in five hours, as should have been the case Sunday morning the street cleaning department could distribute but five thousand gallons on the streets," said the mayor today. "That's too expensive for one thing and it doesn't get nearly enough work done. Fort Wayne must get a better system."

MATERIAL NOT YET SELECTED.

Old Material Will All be Removed by This Evening.

The old asphalt lining will all be removed from the storage reservoir tonight and the big basin will be ready for whatever treatment the board of works desire. No selection will be made until the board has opened the way for a new lining. It will guarantee what is wanted in the way of durable and water-tight material. The stringing away of the lining has shown the structural work of the reservoir to be in fine condition, proving that the plans worked by Mayor Hoesy during his former administration were correct. Now, as then, the question of waterproof lining is a problem. The old lining has held out some seven or eight years, and save in one or two parts of the reservoir was still holding well when the basin was drained nearly two weeks ago.

BUILDING PERMITS.

Ray G. Hutton, two-story frame residence 3719 Hartford avenue, $2,800. John E. Michael, two-story frame residence 604 Ludlow boulevard, $4,800. John E. Winderlin, two-story frame residence 2302 Weaver park avenue, $2,600. George Young, four two-story frame residences at 1901, 1905, 1909 and 1913 Wheeler street, $2,500 each, and a two-story frame residence at 1917 Wheeler street, $2,600. Charles Palmer, two-story brick veneer residence, 2302 Florida drive, $3,500.

STREET IMPROVEMENT PLAN.

Mayor Would Have Curb and Gutters Put in by June 1st.

As a measure of improvement for streets upon which property owners do not feel able to pay, Mayor Hoesy would adopt the policy of having curb and gutter put in at the time sidewalks are laid and have the streets graded to them. All unpaved streets would be brought under operation of the public works department and immediately designed and all new streets hereafter be made to conform to it. This, according to the mayor, would permit drainage of such streets and prevent insupportable conditions of several months duration, such as have been the case during the present winter. The mayor points out that the expense would not be great and it would provide for a part of such work as would have to be done ultimately when pavement was desired.

IN THE CHURCHES

REVIVALS TO CONTINUE.

Rev. Ferries Consents to Stay Another Week at Bowser Church.

Because of increased revival enthusiasm it has been decided to continue the services at the Bowser Free Methodist church for one week. Evangelist Ferries has consented to remain during the week and this evening his subject will be, "A Square Deal." Rev. Ferries is an earnest and gifted exponent of old fashioned gospel truths, speaking straight from the shoulder in a simple but powerful manner that attracts. At the Easter services many bowed at the bench seeking forgiveness for sins in an effort to get right with the Lord.

WILL HOLD A CONFERENCE.

Lutheran Ministers and Teachers of Fort Wayne District to Meet.

The ministers and teachers of the Missouri Lutheran congregations of the Fort Wayne district will meet in regular session tomorrow noon at the St. Paul's school auditorium. This conference will be in session until Thursday afternoon.

No program has been arranged and after transacting the regular business topics pertaining to work in the churches will be discussed. On Wednesday evening at 7:45 there will be a church service at the St. Paul's church and Rev. Haur of the Lutheran congregation a few miles south of the city on the Piqua road will deliver the sermon. It is thought that there will be over seventy-five ministers and teachers present at this meeting.

GET ACQUAINTED MEETING.

Another Social Gathering at Plymouth Congregational Church Tonight.

This evening at Plymouth Congregational church will occur another of the series of "get acquainted" social gatherings, the occasion being in charge of the ladies' society. These meetings have been found necessary because of the rapid enlargement of the membership of the church. Forty-two names were added to the rolls during the Easter season. The Easter decorations of the church, prepared for yesterday's services, will be retained until after next Sunday.

To Give Chicken Supper.

Section No. 4, of the Ladies' Auxiliary of the West (Bright Avenue) Church of Christ will give a chicken supper in the basement of the church Tuesday evening, April 14. The menu includes chicken, mashed potatoes, gravy, jelly, hot biscuits, butter, corn, egg-salad, coffee, ice cream and cake.

Missionary Committee Meeting.

The missionary committee of the Associated Christian Workers of Fort Wayne will meet Thursday evening at 7:30 o'clock in the parlors of the Third Presbyterian church, on South Harrison street. Every member is urged to be present.

ARRANGE SPLENDID PROGRAM.

St. Paul's Dramatic Society Will Present "The Midnight Watch."

The dramatic society of St. Paul's Catholic church has arranged a program to be given on the evenings of May 5 and 6 at the parish school hall. The main play of the program is "The Midnight Watch." The play will begin each evening at 8 o'clock.

The characters of the play have been rehearsed quite often recently, and will soon be able to give it, although they will keep on rehearsing until the date upon which it will be presented. Rev. Michael Aichinger is directing the play. The program of the affair is as follows:

The cast: Pierre Delaroché.....Clarence Freiburger Antoine Duval.....Frank Bangert Cora.....August Miller Adolphe.....Walter Schell Labarre, a Jailer.....William Miller Pauline.....Margaret Miller Kmetz, a servant.....Helen Robinson Soldiers and citizens.....Helen Robinson

II—What is it? Mr. Broadhead.....August Gruber Barnaby.....George Beckers Charles.....Adolph Keller Jack.....Bernard Brinker Jeanette.....Helen Freiburger

III—Bruised and Cured. Horace Hinton.....John Bott Larry Lightweight.....Herbert Niehter IV. "Stunt and Land," comic song, by J. W. Snelzer.

And "Gleason," song by Herbert Niehter.

VE. "So Let's Try and Forget It," song by H. Niehter.

VII. "Don't Say That I Said It," song by August Miller.

CHOSEN AS ASSISTANT.

Miss Hazel Stanley Will Remain at West Jefferson Street Church.

Miss Hazel Stanley, of Greenfield, O., who assisted the pastor, Rev. C. E. Tomes, of the West Jefferson Street Church of Christ, in the revival meetings at that place recently, has been chosen assistant pastor to Rev. Tomes. Miss Stanley was formerly assistant pastor at the Christian church at Canton.

Resides being a fine speaker, Miss Stanley is also a fine solo singer. She is well versed in the Bible and has conducted many Bible classes in a most satisfactory manner. With the help of Miss Stanley, Rev. Tomes is planning many new features in the work of the church and especially in the Sunday school.

Special Envelope Collections. The various Fort Wayne Lutheran churches of the Missouri synod at the Easter services held special envelope collections for a fund with which to rebuild the Lutheran teachers' seminary at Forest River, near Chicago, which recently was destroyed by fire with a loss of almost $100,000. Work on the new structure has already begun.

Revivals Open Tonight. Revival meetings at the Oliver Street Baptist church will open this evening with Rev. John Walton, who will conduct the meetings throughout. Rev. Walton, who is commonly known as the "Movie Evangelist," will speak this evening and will also use his picture machine to illustrate his address.

To Give a Musical. The Simpson M. E. church society are arranging to give a musical within the next two weeks. The musical chorus will be made up of thirty-five voices and the male chorus will be made up of sixteen members.
